A Radically Democratic Response to Global Governance Margaret Stout, Jeannine M. Love, 2016-12-08 This book presents a critique of dominant governance theories grounded in an understanding of existence as a static discrete mechanistic process while also identifying the failures of theories that assume dynamic alternatives of either a radically collectivist or individualist nature Relationships between ontology and governance practices are established drawing upon a wide range of social political and administrative theory Employing the ideal type method and dialectical analysis to establish meanings the authors develop a typology of four dominant approaches to governance The authors then provide a systematic analysis of each governance approach thoroughly unpacking and critiquing each one and exploring the relationships and movements among them that engender reform and revolution as well as retrenchment and obfuscation of power dynamics After demonstrating that each governance approach has fatal flaws within a diverse global context the authors propose an alternative they call Integrative Governance As a synthesis of the ideal types Integrative Governance is neither individualist nor collectivist while still maintaining the dynamic character required to accommodate responsiveness to cultural contexts ISSUP strategic review, 1986

Hope in the Thought of Jacques Ellul Lawrence J. Terlizese, 2005-10-30 Hope expresses more than an area of concentration in Ellul's thought it is the central idea that binds his disparate elements together Ellul believed that at this moment of history the world since 1945 hope must preoccupy our thinking and lives To understand hope we must first comprehend its absence This entails discerning what causes the absence of hope namely the world's embrace of technique and the abandonment of God Ellul also rejected these as a positive affirmation He wanted to make a firm distinction between reality and truth He affirmed modern abandonment as a realistic fact as an accurate analysis of the present condition not as an affirmation of the truth Hope is truth in Jesus Christ but truth must be asserted against these harsh facts He used facts to incite hope in believers to shake their complacency and to realize their actual condition in the world The idea of hope in the thought of Jacques Ellul can only be properly understood in light of dialectic struggle between negatives which amount to factual representations of the modern world and positives through which hope exerts itself in the face of these facts From this tension will issue personal resolve Technique has brought the world to great collective heights and achievements but this has come at the expense of personal ends and meaning Ellul attempted to bridge this gap by asserting individual meaning against the aggregated progress of technique without destroying the gains made by collective advance This represents the central dilemma in Ellul's thought how does one maintain meaning and personal aims in a world founded on corporate necessity from the Introduction
