Taking Stock of Programs to Develop Socioemotional Skills Maria Laura Sánchez Puerta, Alexandria Valerio, Marcela Gutiérrez Bernal, 2016-08-17 This book represents a systematic review of the documented impacts of programs aimed at fostering socio emotional skills in developed and developing countries It uses a life cycle approach to organize the findings from rigorous evaluations of more than 80 programs This includes programs for toddlers and young children before primary school programs for students enrolled in formal education and programs targeted at the out of school population The book develops a conceptual framework that helps to identify the program characteristics and participants profiles associated with a range of program outcomes These include health related behavioral academic or cognitive and economic related outcomes The review finds that few of the programs studied focus exclusively on the development of socio emotional skills In fact most efforts to develop socio emotional skills are embedded within innovative education and training curricula as well as pedagogical and classroom practices Evidence shows that programs are particularly effective when targeted to highly vulnerable populations and in particular to young children Overall findings indicate that high quality programs for young children tend to foster cognitive abilities in the short run and to impact socio emotional skills over the long run Programs for students enrolled in formal education primary and secondary levels show positive and significant impacts on the outcomes reviewed The most successful of these programs are implemented school wide and follow the SAFE approach that is they are appropriately sequenced active focused and explicit Finally the review finds that programs for out of school children and youth are usually designed as a means of achieving immediate labor market outcomes e g job placement formal employment and higher wages While some of these programs show positive and statistically significant impacts on socio emotional skills the impacts tend to be small

Care Unit | Role of Imaging in Neurodevelopmental Outcomes of High Risk Neonates | Patent Ductus Arteriosus | Gastroesophageal Reflux and Gastroesophageal Reflux Diseases in the Neonate Find and grasp the information you need easily and rapidly with indexing that provides quick access to specific guidance Supplementary Education Edmund W. Gordon, Beatrice L. Bridgall, Aundra Saa Meroe, 2005 In Supplementary Education the editors argue that while access to schools that enable and expect academic achievement is a necessary ingredient for the education of students schools alone may not be sufficient to ensure universally high levels of academic development Supplemental educational experiences may also be needed The idea of supplementary education is based on the assumption that high academic achievement is closely associated with exposure to family and community based activities and learning experiences that occur both in and out of school in support of academic learning For low income and some ethnic minority student groups opportunities to participate in such activities are generally under resourced and underutilized in comparison to the access to and participation in such activities by many European and Asian Americans from mid to high socio economic backgrounds This book makes the case for supplementary education Specifically it focuses on the need for universal access to high levels of academic achievement and the challenge of reducing the achievement gap that exists between Asian American and European American students and their African American Latina o and Native American counterparts Having posed the problem the editors define the construct and provide in depth descriptions of some of the more colloquial expressions of supplementation in after school care youth development and other forms of supplemental education The editors close with a discussion of the emerging institutionalization and need for more thoughtful and rigorous research of the supplementary education movement
