Ricci,Ernesto A. Pretto Jr.,Knut Ole Sundnes,2019-10-17 A human disaster is defined as a hazardous event that overwhelms the capacity of the local community to respond to the needs of the affected population Medical and public health responses aim to provide care efficiently and promptly but all too often responses are hampered by recurring mistakes Analysing the factors at play such as the scale and frequency of disasters and the variety of challenges they present is central to developing more effective response plans. However, the complexity of disasters often precludes reliable data collection, hampering the accuracy of the results. Conclusions and recommendations required to improve responses.

Disaster Evaluation Research: A field guide presents a new approach to the study of disaster by incorporating a mixed methods research approach. This practical manual provides a range of reliable methods, robust approaches and proven techniques for the gathering and analyzing of data. Written by leading evaluation scientists with a wealth of experience, the authors present their EIGHT Step Model for disaster evaluation studies. This framework applies evaluation science to disaster responses, helping scientists to select key stakeholders, effectively write evaluation questions, use logic models and mixed methods research design, prepare sampling plans, collect and analyse data, and prepare a final report. This guide also features useful tools for carrying out evaluations, including evaluation questions, indicators, and data sources, resources, and questionnaires used in past evaluation studies. Using a clear, accessible, and step-by-step style, this practical manual is easy to use in the field and essential reading for medical and public health professionals involved in disaster preparedness and response, humanitarian relief workers, policy analysts, evaluation scientists, and epidemiologists.

Strategies to Improve Cardiac Arrest Survival Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on the Treatment of Cardiac Arrest: Current Status and Future Directions, 2015-09-29. Cardiac arrest can strike a seemingly healthy individual of any age, race, ethnicity, or gender at any time in any location, often without warning. Cardiac arrest is the third leading cause of death in the United States, following cancer and heart disease. Four out of five cardiac arrests occur in the home, and more than 90 percent of individuals with cardiac arrest die before reaching the hospital. First and foremost, cardiac arrest treatment is a community issue; local resources and personnel must provide appropriate, high-quality care to save the life of a community member. Time between onset of arrest and provision of care is fundamental, and shortening this time is one of the best ways to reduce the risk of death and disability from cardiac arrest. Specific actions can be implemented now to decrease this time, and recent advances in science could lead to new discoveries in the causes of and treatments for cardiac arrest. However, specific barriers must first be addressed.

Strategies to Improve Cardiac Arrest Survival examines the complete system of response to cardiac arrest in the United States and identifies opportunities within existing and new treatments, strategies, and research that promise to improve the survival and recovery of patients. The recommendations of Strategies to Improve Cardiac Arrest Survival provide high-priority actions to advance the field as a whole. This report will help citizens, government agencies, and private industry to improve health outcomes from sudden cardiac arrest across the United States.
