Phd Training Manual:

The Counselling and Psychotherapy Research Handbook Andreas Vossler, Naomi Moller, 2014-10-16 Research is a vital and often daunting component of many counselling and psychotherapy courses. As well as completing their own research projects, trainees across modalities must understand the research in the field, what it tells them and how to do it. Breaking down this seemingly mountainous task into easy-to-swallow pieces, this book will navigate your students through each stage of the research process, from choosing a research question through the pros and cons of different methods to data analysis and writing up their findings. Written by leading contributors from the field, including John McLeod, Mick Cooper and Tim Bond, each chapter features points for reflection, engaging activities and suggestions for further reading, helping students to engage with all aspects of research. An original graphic narrative runs throughout the book, bringing this complex topic to life in a unique way. Whether embarking on research for the first time or already a little familiar with research and research methods, this unique guide is something counselling and psychotherapy students will turn to continually throughout their research projects.

A Handbook for Doctoral Supervisors Stan Taylor, Nigel Beasley, 2005 This book focuses on the practical needs of supervisors, drawing examples from a wide range of countries and using self-interrogation as a means of encouraging readers to reflect upon their practice, making it an essential read for anyone involved.
