Remote Sensing of Night-time Light Christopher Elvidge, Xi Li, Yuyu Zhou, Changyong Cao, Timothy A. Warner, 2021-08-09

Satellite images acquired at night provide a visually arresting perspective of the Earth and the human activities that light up the otherwise mostly dark Earth. These night time light satellite images can be compiled into a geospatial time series that represent an invaluable source of information for both the natural and social sciences. Night time light remote sensing has been shown to be particularly useful for a range of natural science and social science applications including studies relating to urban development, demography, sociology, fishing activity, light pollution, and the consequences of civil war. Key sensors for these time series include the Defense Meteorological Satellite Program's Operational Linescan System (DMSP OLS) and the Suomi National Polar-orbiting Partnership Satellite's Visible Infrared Imaging Radiometer Suite (Day-Night Band). Suomi NPP VIIRS DNB. An increasing number of alternative sources are also available, including high spatial resolution and multispectral sensors. This book captures key methodological issues associated with pre-processing night time light data, documents state-of-the-art analysis methods, and explores a wide range of applications. Major sections focus on NPP VIIRS DNB processing, inter-calibration between NPP VIIRS and DMSP OLS, applications associated with socio-economic activities, applications in monitoring urbanization, and fishing activity monitoring. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Remote Sensing.

Remote Sensing of Environmental Changes in Cold Regions Jinyang Du, Jennifer D. Watts, Hui Lu, Lingmei Jiang, Paolo Tarolli, 2019-11-14

This Special Issue gathers papers reporting recent advances in the remote sensing of cold regions. It includes contributions presenting improvements in modeling microwave emissions from snow, assessment of satellite-based sea ice concentration products, satellite monitoring of ice jam and glacier lake outburst floods, satellite mapping of snow depth and soil freeze-thaw states near nadir, interferometric imaging of surface water bodies, and remote sensing-based assessment of high arctic lake environment and vegetation recovery from wildfire disturbances in Alaska. A comprehensive review is presented to summarize the achievements, challenges, and opportunities of cold land remote sensing.

Urban Landscape Ecology Robert A. Francis, James D.A. Millington, Michael A. Chadwick, 2016-04-14

The growth of cities poses ever-increasing challenges for the natural environment on which they impact and depend, not only within their boundaries but also in surrounding peri-urban areas. Landscape ecology, the study of interactions across space and time between the structure and function of physical, biological, and cultural components of landscapes, has a pivotal role to play in identifying sustainable solutions. This book brings together examples of research at the cutting edge of urban landscape ecology across multiple contexts that investigate the state maintenance and restoration of healthy and functional natural environments across urban and peri-urban landscapes. An explicit focus is on urban landscapes, in contrast to other books.

which have considered urban ecosystems and ecology without specific focus on spatial connections. It integrates research and perspectives from across academia, public and private practitioners of urban conservation planning and design. It provides a much needed summary of current thinking on how urban landscapes can provide the foundation of sustained economic growth, prospering communities and personal well being. FileMaker Pro 13 Absolute Beginner's Guide Tim Dietrich, 2015. An accurate and timely understanding of its characteristics at the global, regional and local scales is indispensable for a clearer understanding of the mechanisms underlying the Earth's atmosphere-ocean complex system. Precipitation is one of the elements that is documented to be greatly affected by climate change. In its various forms, precipitation comprises a primary source of freshwater which is vital for the sustainability of almost all human activities. Its socio-economic significance is fundamental in managing this natural resource effectively in applications ranging from irrigation to industrial and household usage. Remote sensing of precipitation is pursued through a broad spectrum of continuously enriched and upgraded instrumentation embracing sensors which can be ground-based, e.g. weather radars, satellite-borne, e.g. passive or active space-borne sensors, underwater, e.g. hydrophones, aerial or ship-borne.

Advances in Quantitative Remote Sensing in China - In Memory of Prof. Xiaowen Li Shunlin Liang, Guangjian Yan, Jiancheng Shi, 2019-03-07. Quantitative land remote sensing has recently advanced dramatically, particularly in China. It has been largely driven by vast governmental investment, the availability of a huge amount of Chinese satellite data, geospatial information requirements for addressing pressing environmental issues and other societal benefits. Many individuals have also fostered and made great contributions to its development, and Prof. Xiaowen Li was one of these leading figures. This book is published in memory of Prof. Li. The papers collected in this book cover topics from surface reflectance simulation, inversion algorithm and estimation of variables to applications in optical, thermal, Lidar and microwave remote sensing. The wide range of variables include directional reflectance chlorophyll fluorescence aerosol optical depth incident solar radiation albedo surface temperature upward longwave radiation leaf area index fractional vegetation cover forest biomass precipitation evapotranspiration freeze thaw snow cover vegetation productivity phenology and biodiversity indicators They clearly reflect the current level of research in this area This book constitutes an excellent reference suitable for upper level undergraduate students graduate students and professionals in remote sensing

Correlated neuronal activity and its relationship to coding, dynamics and network architecture Tatjana Tchumatchenko, Ruben Moreno-Bote, 2014-12-03 Correlated activity in populations of neurons has been observed in many brain regions and plays a central role in cortical coding attention and network dynamics Accurately quantifying neuronal correlations presents several difficulties For example despite recent advances in multicellular recording techniques the number of neurons from which spiking activity can be simultaneously recorded remains orders magnitude smaller than the size of local networks In addition there is a lack of consensus on the distribution of pairwise spike cross correlations obtained in extracellular multi unit recordings These challenges highlight the need for theoretical and computational approaches to understand how correlations emerge and to decipher their functional role in the brain
