Art and Future Peter Stupples, Jane Venis, 2018-04-18 This selection of essays examines the future of art in a changing world. In particular contributors discuss the agency of art in conditions of ecological threats to the natural world to climate change and the effects of globalisation neoliberal economics and mass tourism. Following the lead of Chicago based Frances Whitehead whose essay is a key text some contributors take positions on working with local government agencies to embed art thinking within development projects going back to the art thinking at the centre of Kazimir Malevich's work in Vitebsk one hundred years ago in Russia. Other papers highlight small scale art interventions that bring ecological issues to public notice and suggest positive responses whilst others discuss large scale problems brought about by the social economic and laissez faire history of the emerging Anthropocene with possible dystopic outcomes. Ethical Challenges Jonathan E. Suk, Kathleen M. Vogel, Amanda Jane Ozin, 2015-06-04 In September 2011 scientists announced new experimental findings that would not only threaten the conduct and publication of influenza research but would have significant policy and intelligence implications. The findings presented a modified variant of the H5N1 avian influenza virus hereafter referred to as the H5N1 virus that was transmissible via aerosol between ferrets. These results suggested a worrisome possibility the existence of a new airborne and highly lethal H5N1 virus that could cause a deadly global pandemic. In response a series of international discussions on the nature of dual use life science arose. These discussions addressed the complex social technical political security and ethical issues related to dual use research. This Research Topic will be devoted to contributions that explore this matrix of issues from a variety of case study and international perspectives. The Global Practice of Forensic Science Douglas H.
