New Approaches for the Discovery of Pharmacologically-Active Natural Compounds José L. Medina-Franco,2019-07-01 A major source of active compounds natural products from different sources supply a large variety of molecules that have been approved for clinical use or used as the starting points of optimization programs This book features nine papers eight full articles and one review paper written by more than 45 scientists from around the world These papers illustrate the development and application of a broad range of computational and experimental techniques applied to natural product research On behalf of the contributors to the book our hope is that the research presented here contributes to advancements in the field and encourages multidisciplinary teams young scientists and students to further advance in the discovery of pharmacologically active natural compounds

Production of triploid Pacific oyster (Crassostrea gigas) spat Vignier, J.; Adams, S.; Lovatelli, A.,2024-09-05 Naturally spawned oysters are typically diploid each cell containing two sets of chromosomes Diploid oysters exhibit seasonal variability in condition because they spawn during the summer months following a period of ripening as sea temperatures warm Often this coincides with the peak period for selling oysters in many countries Triploid oysters contain three sets of chromosomes and because they are for the most part sterile they can maintain suitable market quality throughout the year and have organoleptic qualities that are preferred by many consumers Growth of triploids is generally much faster than diploids grown under the same conditions For these reasons many hatcheries produce triploid oysters Triploid oysters can be readily produced in hatcheries using either direct induction techniques or by first producing tetraploid oysters and then using sperm from male tetraploids to fertilise eggs from diploid females There are several different direct techniques to induce triploidy including physical treatments such as pressure temperature or salinity shock or chemical treatments using either cytochalasin B or 6 Dimethyl aminopurine 6 DMAP
