The Endocrine System

Introduction: Hormones are often referred to as "chemical messengers." These tiny messengers are created and released by one organ, and into the bloodstream, and regulate the activity of another organ or cell. For example, adrenaline is created and released by the adrenal glands. It is sent into the bloodstream and has impacts on many other organs in our body, such as the heart. Adrenaline can only get heart rate to increase in a stressful situation. The ovarian glands and testes are in completely different body systems, but thanks to hormones these organs can "communicate."

Many organs in the human body have endocrine glands and a smaller group of organs that make and release hormones into the bloodstream. These glands can be found throughout the body and collectively make up the endocrine system. In this activity, you will read about each endocrine gland, what it does, and finally color which hormones it produces.

Hypothalamus

If you've studied the nervous system, you are familiar with the hypothalamus, a part of the brain. The hypothalamus receives information from the brain and bloodstream on the conditions of the body. It responds to this information by creating hormones, which it then sends to the pituitary gland, which hangs from the hypothalamus. The pituitary gland either responds to or sends these hormones back to the hypothalamus.

Two hormones that the hypothalamus makes and sends to the posterior pituitary gland are oxytocin and antidiuretic hormone (ADH).

1. The thyroid is located below the larynx and is part of the endocrine system. It produces the hormone thyroxine, which regulates the body's metabolism. The thyroid gland is located in the neck.

2. The adrenal glands are located on top of the kidneys. Each adrenal gland consists of two parts: the adrenal cortex and the adrenal medulla.

3. The adrenal cortex produces three types of hormones: cortisol, aldosterone, and androgens.

4. The adrenal medulla produces two hormones: epinephrine and norepinephrine.

5. The testes in males and ovaries in females produce testosterone and estrogen, respectively.

6. The pancreas produces the hormone insulin, which regulates blood sugar levels.

7. The parathyroid glands are small glands located on the thyroid gland. They produce the hormone parathyroid hormone (PTH), which regulates calcium levels in the blood.

8. The pineal gland is located in the brain and produces the hormone melatonin, which regulates sleep patterns.

9. The thymus gland is located in the upper chest area and produces the hormone thymosin, which plays a role in the development of the immune system.
