The turn of the 20th century was a time of great change in Britain. The empire saw its global influence waning and its traditional social structures challenged. There was a growing weariness of industrialism and a desire to rediscover tradition and the roots of English heritage. A new interest in English folk song and dance inspired art music which many believed was seeing a renaissance after a period of stagnation since the 18th century. This book focuses on the lives of seven composers: Ralph Vaughan Williams, Gustav Holst, Ernest Moeran, George Butterworth, Philip Heseltine, Peter Warlock, Gerald Finzi and Percy Grainger, whose work was influenced by folk songs and early music. Each chapter provides an historical background and tells the fascinating story of a musical life.

If there is one thing that people agree about concerning the massive leaderless spontaneous protests that have spread across the globe over the past decade it is that they were failures. Simply put the protesters could not organize nor could they formulate clear demands or bring about change. In the Street argues that in seeking to find the reasons behind these alleged failures we are asking the wrong questions. It argues that when our analysis of such events is confined by a framework of success and failure we blind ourselves to the working reality of democratic politics, namely the on the ground efforts of political actors who in becoming political friends demonstrate if for a fleeting moment that another way of being together is possible. The book develops an alternative conceptualization of democratic action through a close reading of Antonio Negri, Jürgen Habermas and Jacques Rancière and the global protests of 1968 that inspired these political theorists and their work.
