Fables and Fabulists: Ancient and Modern Thomas Newbigging, 2021-05-18 In Fables and Fabulists Ancient and Modern Thomas Newbigging presents a compelling anthology that bridges the gap between classical fables and contemporary parables Newbigging's prose is rich and evocative incorporating a variety of narrative styles that pay homage to the timeless tradition of moral storytelling By weaving together tales from diverse cultures this work not only explores the ethical dimensions inherent in these narratives but also contextualizes their significance within the frameworks of both ancient and modern morality The meticulous arrangement of the fables permits readers to traverse the evolution of moral thought prompting critical reflection on the zeitgeist of different eras Thomas Newbigging an esteemed scholar and practitioner in the field of literary studies has long been fascinated by the interplay between folklore and morality His extensive research in comparative literature and cultural studies has equipped him with unique insights particularly concerning the ways in which stories shape societal values Newbigging's passion for fables is evident throughout this collection where he skillfully integrates historical context and philosophical underpinnings that underpin each narrative This anthology is highly recommended for scholars and casual readers alike as it serves as both an educational resource and a delightful journey into the realm of fables Readers will find themselves captivated by the universal themes of wisdom justice and the human condition all masterfully illuminated through Newbigging's insightful curation

Fables and Fabulists, Ancient and Modern Thomas Newbigging, 1896 Fables and Fabulists Ancient and Modern The Fable or Apologue has been variously defined by different writers Mr Walter Pater paraphrasing Plato's definition says that fables are medicinable lies or fictions with a provisional or economized truth in them set forth under such terms as simple souls can best receive The sophist Aphantionius taking the same view defines the fable as a false discourse resembling truth The harshness of both these definitions is scarcely relieved by their quaintness To assert that the fable is a lie or a falsehood does not fairly represent the fact A lie is spoken with intent to deceive A fable in its relation can bear no such construction however exaggerated in its terms or fictitious in its characters The meanest comprehension is capable of grasping the humour of the situation it creates Even the moral that lurks in the narration is often clear to minds the most obtuse This is at least true of the best fables Dr Johnson in his Life of Gay remarks that A fable or epilogue seems to be in its genuine state a narrative in which beings irrational and sometimes inanimate quod arbores loquantur non tantum ferre are for the purpose of moral instruction feigned to act and speak with human interests and passions Dodsley says that 'tis the very essence of a fable to convey some moral or useful truth beneath the shadow of an allegory Boothby defines the fable as a maxim for the use of common life exemplified in a short action in which the inhabitants of the visible world are made the moral agents G Moir Bussey states that the object of the author is to convey some moral truth to the reader or auditor without usurping the province of the professed lecturer or pedant The lesson must therefore be conveyed in an agreeable form and so that the moralist himself may be as little prominent as possible Mr Joseph Jacobs says that the beast fable may be defined as a short humorous allegorical tale in which animals act in such a way as to illustrate a simple moral truth or inculcate a wise maxim These various definitions or descriptions apply more especially to the sopian fable and it is with this that we are dealing at present which is par excellence the model of this class of composition Steele declares that the virtue which we gather from a fable or an allegory is like the health we get by hunting as we are engaged in an agreeable pursuit that draws us on with pleasure and makes us insensible of the fatigues that accompany it This is applied to the longer fable or epic such as the Iliad and Odyssey of Homer or the 5 Faerie Queen of Spenser rather than to the fable as the term is generally understood otherwise the simile is somewhat inflated One more definition may be attempted The sopian fable or apologue is a short story either fictitious or true generally fictitious calculated to convey instruction advice or reproof in an interesting form impressing its lesson on the mind more deeply than a mere didactic piece of counsel or admonition is capable of doing We say a short story because if the narration is spun out to a considerable length it ceases to be a true fable in the ordinary acceptance of the term and becomes a tale such for example as a fairy tale Now a fairy or other fanciful tale usually or invariably contains some romance and much improbability it often deals largely in the superstitious and it is not necessarily the vehicle for conveying a moral The very opposite holds good of a fable Although animals are usually the actors in the fable there is an air of naturalness in their assumed speech and actions The story may be either highly imaginative or baldly matter of fact but it never wanders beyond the range of intuitive as opposed to actual or natural experience and it always contains a moral In a word a fable is or ought to be the very quintessence of common sense and wise counsel couched in brief narrative form It partakes somewhat of the character of a parable though it can hardly be described as a parable because this is more sedate in character has human beings as its actors and is usually based on an actual occurrence Though parables are not fables in the strict and limited meaning of the term they bear a close family relationship to them Parables may be defined as stories in allegorical dress The Scriptures both old and new abound with them The most beautiful example in the Old Testament is that of Nathan and the ewe lamb in which David the King is made his own accuser This was a favourite mode of conveying instruction and reproof employed by our Lord Christ often spake in parables and with what feelings of reverential awe must we regard the parables of the Gospels coming as they did from the lips of our Saviour
