FOCUS

Objectives

2.2.1 Categorize a sample of matter as a substance or a mixture.

2.2.2 Distinguish between homogeneous and heterogeneous samples of matter.

2.2.3 Describe two ways that components of mixtures can be separated.

Guide for Reading

Build Vocabulary

L2

Word Forms Have students look up the term homogenize and explain how this process could be used to turn a heterogeneous mixture into one that is more homogeneous.

Reading Strategy

L3

Using Context Clues Tie the Reading Strategy to the Build Vocabulary strategy. Have students use the definitions of homogeneous and heterogeneous mixtures to answer the question posed in the Reading Strategy.

INSTRUCT

Connecting to Your World

After students read the introduction, ask What is the result of panning? (Gold is separated from a mixture of materials.) What property is used to separate the mixture? (heaviness of the materials) Heavier and lighter are used to compare the materials because density isn't discussed until Chapter 3.

Classifying Mixtures

Discuss

L2

Bring orange juice or liquid salad dressing to class and compare the properties of these mixtures to those of pure water or pure NaCl. Explain that mixtures are variable in composition.

2.2 Mixtures

Connecting to Your World

In 1848, gold was discovered in California. This discovery led to a massive migration, or rush, of people to California. Panning is one way to separate gold from a mixture of gold and materials such as sand or gravel. A pan containing the mixture is placed underwater and shaken vigorously from left to right. This motion causes heavier materials, such as gold, to move to the bottom of the pan and lighter materials, such as sand, to move to the top where they can be swept away. In this section, you will learn how to classify and separate mixtures.

Reading Strategy

Building Vocabulary After you read this section, explain the difference between homogeneous and heterogeneous mixtures.

Classifying Mixtures

A salad bar, like the one in Figure 2.5, provides a range of items, such as cucumbers and hot peppers. Customers choose which items to use in their salads and how much of each item to use. So each salad has a different composition. A mixture is a physical blend of two or more components.

Most samples of matter are mixtures. Some mixtures are easier to recognize than others. You can easily recognize chicken noodle soup as a mixture of chicken, noodles, and broth. Recognizing air as a mixture of gases is more difficult. But the fact that air can be drier or more humid shows that the amount of one component of air—water vapor—can vary. Chicken noodle soup and air represent two different types of mixtures. Based on the distribution of their components, mixtures can be classified as heterogeneous mixtures or as homogeneous mixtures.

Figure 2.5 You can choose the amount of each item you select from a salad bar. So your salad is unlikely to have the same composition as other salads containing the same items.
