

Example paragraph for Language Paper 2 Question 3 – on neologisms texts

Both texts use language to dismiss the idea that language that remains stagnant is superior. *1 In the opening paragraph Text A uses the noun phrase 'language purists'. The abstract noun 'purist' has heavy connotations of something that is perfect, however over time has come to gain negative associations with the rejection of the innovative and a discrimination against diversity. *2 The writer has used this term to subtly imply that 'language purists' are narrow minded and traditional to a detrimental effect. This is reinforced when the article later uses 'pure' as an adjective in the declarative sentence 'there's no language so pure as a dead one.' This statement implies that the best way to remain 'pure', and therefore free of influence, is for it to 'die' and therefore stop growing. The implicit connection between purity and death demonstrates the writer's belief that language that is unaffected by alteration is no longer viable or useful to society. Similarly, *3 the writer of Text B uses language to remind the reader that language change is crucial and even beneficial to the enrichment of our usage of it. He refers to a 16th century poet Richard Wiles who offered a negative view on language change, but refers to several of his 'objects of contempt', such as 'portentous, antiquers, despicable' and several others. *4 The reader will recognise the metaphor 'objects of contempt' next to several well-established and even well-respected vocabularies as ironic. The connection between the poet's negative view of language change and these words that are fully accepted now undermines the argument against language change. It suggests that those who believe language change is detrimental are ignorant and suppressers of language progress. Text B's language positions the writer in a higher place than the reader by showing that their knowledge on the history and importance of language change is superior even to established authors of an earlier period. Both texts use language to convey their view that language change is important in a way that encourages the reader to view their opinion as expert.

Method (best structure for AO4):

Topic sentence linking both texts and their view of language change. This can be a similarity or a difference.	Both texts express the view that...
In depth language analysis of Text A	Whilst Text A implies... Text B suggests... *1
AO3 Contextualised interpretation of Text A Link to Text B (comparative connective)	*2 Similarly / in comparison / alternatively etc...
In depth language analysis of Text B	*3
AO3 Contextualised interpretation of Text B	*4
Linking final sentence	Both texts use language to convey their view that... Therefore, whilst...

Please note:

When doing your in depth language analysis, it's important to push yourself to cover a range of language techniques and devices, including features of structure and tense. This is the only way to get a high level in AO1.

You should also remember the focus of your analysis is about the writers' opinions on language change. This analysis should be contextualised (AO3) i.e. how are they affecting the reader? How are they positioning themselves in terms of their relationship with the reader or other linguists? What do they want to achieve?
