Hungary's Integration Into European Union Markets Bart?omiej Kami?ski, 1999 Abstract June 1999 Can Hungarian firms cope with competitive pressures and market forces within the European Union market a criterion for joining The empirical evidence suggests that Hungary can withstand such competitive pressures without suppressing the real incomes of Hungary's citizens Hungary has achieved impressive results in reorienting both its production and trade Between 1989 and 1992 as the former CMEA markets collapsed and Hungary liberalized imports and the exchange rate regime exports to the European Union EU expanded with manufactured exports redirected largely to Western mostly EU markets During this first phase of expansion characterized by a dramatic reorientation and explosion of trade the value of Hungary's exports increased 84 percent In 1993 export expansion lost steam and EU oriented exports fell 12 percent In a second phase of expansion in 1994 97 driven by restructured and rapidly changing export offers exports again registered strong performance their value increasing 132 percent There was a dramatic shift from an export basket dominated by resource intensive low value added products to one driven by manufactures with a rapidly accelerating growth of engineering products Machinery and transport equipment rose from 12 percent of exports to the EU in 1989 to more than 50 percent in 1997 The shift from natural resource and unskilled labor intensive products to technology and capital intensive products in EU oriented exports suggests the potential for integration higher in the value added spectrum More stringent EU environmental regulations will affect a relatively low and falling share of Hungary's exports The Hungarian share of environmentally dirty products imported by the EU has increased but these products have not been trendsetters among Hungarian exports their share in exports falling from 26 percent in 1989 to 16 percent in 1996 The rapid pace of Hungary's turnaround seems to reflect the emergence of second generation firms mostly foreign owned Foreign owned firms tend to be more export oriented Hungary has been one of the more successful transition economies because its economy was receptive to foreign direct investment from the outset Between 1990 and 1997 Hungary absorbed roughly half of all foreign capital invested in Central Europe This paper a product of Trade Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to study regional integration The author may be contacted at bkaminski@worldbank.org A Tax System for the 21st Century, 1992 Proceedings of the 21st

Sweeping changes are occurring in the international system presenting the United States with both opportunities and challenges The East West strategic rivalry that dominated the global security environment for over forty years has been fundamentally and in a number of critical ways irreversibly altered Yet the world continues to be unpredictable and dangerous Relations with Russia and China have improved dramatically in the last ten years but remain uncertain Both states continue to emphasize and modernize their nuclear arsenals In other regions of vital interest to the United States potential adversaries increasingly have at their disposal advanced conventional and unconventional capabilities as well as weapons of mass destruction and the means for their delivery Together these and other factors such as the ongoing revolution in military technology have engendered major adjustments in U S national security policy and in the strategy and forces that support U S security interests A series of U S government analyses including the Nuclear Posture Review and the Quadrennial Defense Review has guided the restructuring of U S conventional forces and provided the basis for the late 1997 Presidential Decision Directive on nuclear weapons policy Further analyses and adjustments will certainly follow As a contribution to this dynamic process this report assesses the rationale and requirements for U S nuclear weapons and the infrastructure and people that are critical to their sustainment in the current and future security environment By so doing the report is intended to promote greater understanding of the issues and the measures that will be necessary to sustain deterrence in an uncertain future The American public and its leadership in both the Executive and Legislative branches must remain informed involved and supportive Absent concerted and continuing high level attention to the policies and programs supporting its nuclear forces 7
