CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Evaluate the effectiveness of the legal and non-legal responses in concerns with the contemporary human rights issue of capital punishment.

Human rights are the basic universally recognised liberties and entitlements accorded to all people that are inalienable but unfortunately these rights in the use of capital punishment are abused. Capital Punishment also referred to as the death penalty, or execution is a legal process whereby a person is put to death by the state as a punishment for a crime such as murder, aggravated sexual assault, apostasy, treason and in more recent times the trafficking of humans and drugs. Over 60% of the world's population live in countries where a person's right to "humane treatment" and to a life of "liberty and freedom" is violated because of the use of capital punishment. Both legal and non-legal methods have undertaken various measures to address the issue of capital punishment.

Legal methods such as United Nations Resolutions and Protocols and international and domestic legislation have been put in place in order to achieve "A Global Moratorium on Capital Punishment".

The United Nation as a Global Entity encourages its nation states to move for a "Global Moratorium on Capital Punishment" through its binding resolutions and protocols. The United Nations Convention on the Right of the Child in article 37 prohibits the subjection of a juvenile to torture, capital punishment and deprivation of liberty and the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights in its 11 articles stresses the necessity of a universal ban on capital punishment. Although the United Nations is a very influential power without the initial signing and ratification of its binding resolutions and protocols a nation state is not liable when breaching any of the articles within the resolution/ protocol due to a its right to state sovereignty "a countries ability to enforce its own laws".

Global legislation concerning the abolishment of capital punishment is dependent on the initial signing and ratification of United Nations resolutions and protocols.

The Australian Federal Government passed into Legislation the abolishment of capital punishment with the Death Penalty Abolition Act 1973 (Cth) which ratifies the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. This legislation forbids the use of capital punishment and makes R v Ronald Ryan (VIC ) 1966 the last person executed on Australia soil.

But without the initial signing and ratification of United Nations resolution and protocols nations are allowed to use capital punishment in the sentencing of an offender. An example of this is the case of Singapore v Van Tuong Nguyen (2005) ("Terrified Walk to a Long-Drop Execution." The Daily Telegraph, December 1, 2005), were Van Nguyen (an Australian citizen) was hung in Changi prison on the 2nd of December 2005 under Singapore's "Mandatory
