

Community Policing is a Potential Strategy to Combat Crime: Community Police Forums Purpose is for the Monitoring of the Implementation of the Saps's Community Policing Strategy

Dr. John Motsamai Modise
South African Police Service

Abstract:- The objectives of this study were; to describe the participation of the community members in the Community Policing Forums; to identify the participation of CPFs in the community; to identify challenges faced by Community Policing Forums in the Country; to identify the purpose of the Community Policing Forums; to establish the strengths of the CPFs in doing their work; and to determine the needs of the CPFs to enable them to do their work. The study will be derived into two sections. Section 1 will describe the roles and responsibilities of Community Police Forums and the way they are organized. The second portion will cover the South African Police Service's policy-regulating framework for community policing, community policing forums, and the Implementation Guideline for Partnerships in Policing. The different publications acting as a roadmap for the creation and execution of CPFs to encourage communication between SAPS and community members. It is generally thought that the idea of strengthening community safety through engagement between SAPS and CPFs to achieve crime prevention is a legitimate strategy that is not exclusive to South Africa. In line with Section 205(3) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, this serves as an addition to crime prevention efforts backed by the UN. In contrast, the notion of strengthening community safety through collaboration between SAPS and CPFs to achieve crime prevention is today regarded as a valid technique that is not exclusive to South Africa. As for suggestions, in South Africa, the development of CPFs in cooperation with the local SAPS to achieve crime prevention can play crucial roles in combating various crimes and also act as a deterrent to crimes causation within South African communities; as a result, the establishment and implementation should be based on the confinement of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, and SAPS Act (No. 68 of 1995). In a study conducted by Rosenbaum (1994), stated that research done since the early 1970s has revealed that the professional law enforcement model used in policing has flaws. A completely new way of thinking and acting in the police force will result in a fundamental overhaul of the organization's structure. The international legal framework and South African viewpoint must serve as the change's guiding principles. "(Mamosebo, 2014:22)". The South African National Government established Community Policing Forums (CPF's) in each police station to ensure that both the SAPS and members of the community are involved in crime prevention within their area of jurisdiction. This was done in order to implement the community policing philosophy. Here, we'll go into great depth on how the police and CPFs work together to prevent crime.

Keywords:- Community Involvement in CPF's, Participation in Neighbourhood Gatherings, Crime Prevention, Police Accountability, Communication between Police and Community, Community Safety, Financing, Education, Assistance from the Police, Community Support, Lowering Crime, Enhancing Public Safety.

I. INTRODUCTION

The most significant factors influencing the asymmetry of asymmetrical polarization are the CPFs. Criminal activity is a global problem that jeopardizes not just community safety and security but also the peace and stability of the entire nation. It is one of the main problems affecting our nation's economy. Citizens feel less secure as a result, which frequently makes life more uncomfortable. The quality of life for the typical person is harmed by crime. This suggests that for communities as well as the police to tackle crime effectively, there must be a strong political will. Crime is a serious issue since it violates fundamental human rights and reduces everyone's level of living in the country. As a result, "community policing" has become the cornerstone of the South African Police Service's (SAPS) strategy for battling crime in specific localities.

Community Police Forums (CPF's) are statutory bodies established in terms of the South African Police Service Act, No 68 of 1995, and the Sector Crime Forum is an operational body of the Sector Policing (Maroga, 2004). These forums are established as vehicles to implement the community policing policy of South Africa. CPFs are community-based structures whilst Sector Policing is Police driven. This research will focus on Community Police Forums. The objectives of the CPFs are outlined in the SAPS Act and the Community Policing Policy Framework & Guidelines as follows: establish and maintain a partnership between the community and the police; ensure consultation and proper communication between the police

Restorative Policing Kerry Clamp,Craig Paterson,2016-10-04 In the UK and elsewhere restorative justice and policing are core components of a range of university programmes however currently no such text exists on the intersection of these two areas of study This book draws together these diverse theoretical perspectives to provide an innovative knowledge rich text that is essential reading for all those engaged with the evolution and practice of restorative policing Restorative Policing surveys the twenty five year history of restorative policing practice during which its use and influence over criminal justice has slowly grown It then situates this experience within a criminological discussion about neo liberal responses to crime control There has been insufficient debate about how the concepts of restorative justice and policing sit alongside each other and how they may be connected or disconnected in theoretical and conceptual terms The book seeks to fill this gap through an exploration of concepts theory policy and practice In doing so the authors make a case for a more transformative vision of restorative policing that can impact positively upon the shape and practice of policing and outline a framework for the implementation of such a strategy This pathbreaking book will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students taking courses on restorative justice policing and crime control as well as professionals interested in the implementation of restorative practices in the police force Policing in Europe Antoinette Verhage,2010 The Journal of Police Studies is a quarterly which is oriented towards high standard quality contributions on policing issues and phenomena that are of interest to the police Topics are approached from a specialist and if required multidisciplinary point of view The volume looks to answer questions regarding the developments of police and police cooperation in Europe at the supranational level as well as explore the reactions of police organizations in individual European countries to the process of transnationalisation in terms of the design of and philosophy within police organizations Community Policing Victor E. Kappeler,Larry K. Gaines,2009 This text is about community policing revolutionary movement a philosophy and an organizational strategy that expands the traditional police mandate It broadens the focus of fighting crime to include solving community problems urging police to form a partnership with the people in the community so average citizens can contribute to the police process in exchange for their support and participation Profiles feature community policing programs in various cities and problem solving case studies cover topics such as drugs gangs homelessness mental illness and robbery Crime and Policing in Rural and Small-town America Ralph A. Weisheit,1995 How community policing enables the development of community in terms of having social order and crime reduction Kiiza B. Joseph,2011-12-05 Essay from the year 2011 in the subject Sociology Law and Delinquency language English abstract This research examines how community policing enables the development of community in terms of having social order and crime reduction One rationale for public involvement is the belief that police alone can neither create nor maintain safe communities thus a need for the whole community in maintaining social order and putting crime reduction strategies to create a safe environment for people to operate and this can only be achieved through the philosophy known as community policing The Rise of Comparative Policing Jacques de Maillard,Sebastian Roché,2021-08-26 This book argues that policing should be studied in a truly comparative manner as a way of identifying more accurately the diverse features of police organisations and the trends which affect contemporary policing Studying policing comparatively is also a way to develop more sophisticated theories on the relations between police state and society aiming at higher degree of generalization In particular broadening the empirical basis often limited to Western countries favours the formulation of more encompassing theories The comparative analysis then is used to refine meso or macro theories on various aspects of policing The book covers the challenges of comparative research in diverse areas of policing studies with innovative tools and approaches to allow for the development of that subfield of policing It is a significant new contribution to policing studies and will be a great resource for academics researchers and advanced students of Public Policy Sociology Political Science and Law The chapters in this book were originally published in Policing and Society Readings for Research Methods in Criminology and Criminal Justice Mark L. Dantzker,1999 The papers in this book discuss and illustrate a variety of methodological techniques concepts instruments etc used in criminological and criminal justice research Critical Thinking Skills for your Policing Degree Jane Bottomley,Martin Wright,Steven Prymachuk,2025-02-28 If you are embarking on a university criminology policing or other law enforcement professional degree the books in this series will help you acquire and develop the knowledge skills and strategies you need to achieve your goals They provide support in all areas important for university study including institutional and disciplinary policy and practice self management and research and communication Tasks and activities are designed to foster aspects of learning which are valued in higher education including learner autonomy and critical thinking and to guide you towards reflective practice in your study and work life Critical Thinking Skills for your Policing Degree provides you with a sound knowledge and understanding of the nature of critical thinking and of its relevance and importance in HE how to adopt a critical approach to all aspects of your policing studies the importance of active critical reading and how it allows you an efficient principled effective assessment of the literature in your field the need to adopt a critical approach to writing characterised by

Human Rights and the Police in Transitional Countries Lone Lindholt, Paulo de Mesquita Neto, Danny Titus, Etannibi E. Alemika, 2021-08-04 The volume intended to function as an academic debate book began as a workshop on Human Rights and the Police in Transitional Countries held in March 2001 in Hillerød, Denmark. The workshop, which was funded by the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, brought together practitioners and academics from Europe, Asia, Africa, and Latin America to discuss common experience from the context of transition, which characterises all of them. These discussions take place along four themes: i.e. the transitional context, governance and rule of law, police and civil society, education and training, and the police organisation and reform, international intervention and aid. In addition to a number of key papers on general and theoretical aspects, each section contains a number of illustrative examples of how these issues express themselves in a large number of countries. Finally, the book sums up a catalogue of findings and recommendations in relation to the promotion of human rights in transitional countries and the role of the police in this work.

Crime, Policing and Place David Evans, Nicholas Fyfe, David Herbert, 2002-01-31 First published in 2002, spiralling crime rates and continuing public concern about police-community relations ensure that crime and policing remain firmly on the social and political agenda. An awareness of crime continues to affect the lives of ordinary people and also to stimulate policy makers who recognise that crime rates form one of the principles by which their effectiveness is judged. Of the many agencies involved in the battle against crime, the police, in their various roles, constitute the most obvious front line. Drawing on case material from Britain, Europe, Canada, and America, Crime, Policing and Place examines the significance of spatial patterns of crime and the processes which produce them. The book analyses the implications of theoretical and methodological innovation in the study of crime and policing, the processes which underlie the uneven distribution and impact of crime, and the success of recent policies aimed at preventing crime and enhancing police-community relations. Contributors are drawn from a variety of academic disciplines, including criminology, geography, and social policy, and also from the police and government agencies with direct policy input.

Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents, 1999

Historic Documents of 2015 Heather Kerrigan, 2016-06-24 For more than 40 years, the Historic Documents series has made primary source research easy by presenting excerpts from documents on the important events of each year for the United States and the World. Each volume includes 60 to 70 events with well over 100 documents from the previous year, from official reports and surveys to speeches from leaders and opinion makers, to court cases, legislation, testimony, and much more. Historic Documents is renowned for the well-written and informative background history and context it provides for each document. Each volume begins with an insightful essay that sets the year's events in context, and each document or group of documents is preceded by a comprehensive introduction that provides background information on the event. Full source citations are provided. Readers have easy access to material through a detailed thematic table of contents, and each event includes references to related coverage and documents from the last ten

editions of the series
