TITLE/TOPIC	Mobile gadgets control our relationships
INTRODUCTION	It's certain that technology has made interactive between one another significantly easier. In that reason, many people are now normally using mobile gadgets to connect with people. In fact, according to Statista, as of January 2021, there were 4.66 billion active internet users worldwide - 59.5 percent of the global population. Of this total, 92.6 percent (4.32 billion) accessed the internet via mobile devices. From what these devices can show and provide for the users, there's no surprise that these mobile gadgets can greatly affect the relationships of the users to the point where it already controls a persons' relationship with his peers.
DISCUSSION	Using mobile gadgets are fun for sure— everything is always a click away. Even dating sites are a click away, meeting people, hooking up, getting rejected is easier than ever. We can do a lot of entertaining things and connecting with people around the world never felt so easy. But people nowadays depend more on their gadgets to get by. In the modern day, many people live in the digital world more than the real world. According to DJ Wardynski, Human interactions and relationships have thus largely decreased, while intimacy and human-to-human interactions have been replaced with human-to-machine interactions. No strong relationship can last long if people do not utilize social skills to meet potential mates, if they just simply swipe through a "catalog" of people. And such happenings are made by using applications in our gadgets. "Nothing kills romance faster than pulling out a smart phone." Oaklander said in an article. It is not uncommon for couples to spend less and less time actually talking with each other, and more time glued to their mobile devices or TV sets. In the study, published in the journal Psychology of Popular Media Culture, people who felt that their partners were overly dependent on their devices said they were less satisfied in their relationship. It only shows that because of the lack of intimacy, and more of usage and dependency of the people with their phones, people tend to have frail relationships with other people. Even with our parents and friends. Additionally, ghosting (simply disappearing from the digital world when one is no longer interested) is often very frequent, which results from a lack of social skills - or courage - to end a relationship in the old-fashioned way. This has often resulted in a myriad of shallow relationships, and a great reduction in intimacy which directly affects the way people operate, the values and expectations people have, and the way people think about others.
CONCLUSION	In conclusion, mobile gadgets do help people to connect, interact, and develop with each other. But then again, it has the tendency to ruin one's relationship when used incorrectly. In the end, it's still the person who'll decide what actions he'll be doing. Letting the virtual world consume you will lead to some instances where you can't connect with people physically and instead, it can push them farther. The correct and appropriate use of mobile gadgets can be the key in order to stay in Cyber Weaponry Henry Prunckun, 2018-04-04 There is little doubt that cyber space has become the battle space for confrontations However to conduct cyber operations a new armory of weapons needs to be employed No matter how many or how sophisticated an aggressor's kinetic weapons are they are useless in cyber space This book looks at the milieu of the cyber weapons industry as well as the belligerents who use cyber weapons It discusses what distinguishes these hardware devices and software programs from computer science in general It does this by focusing on specific aspects of the topic contextual issues of why cyber space is the new battleground defensive cyber weapons offensive cyber weapons dual use weapons and the implications these weapons systems have for practice Contrary to popular opinion the use of cyber weapons is not limited to nation states though this is where the bulk of news reporting focuses The reality is that there isn't a sector of the political economy that is immune to cyber skirmishes So this book looks at cyber weapons not only by national security agencies and the military but also by law enforcement and the business sector the latter includes administrations termed non government organisations NGOs This book offers study material suitable for a wide ranging audience students professionals researchers policy officers and ICT specialists Commercial West ,1904 The

Novel Approaches to Design Eco-friendly Materials Based on Natural Nanomaterials Aiqin Wang,Wenbo Wang,Hongfei Cheng,Chunhui Zhou,2019-08-12 Naturally available nanomaterials or those synthesized from natural resources become new favorite of material world due to their advantages of low cost safety and environmental friendliness They are honored as future green materials and widely used in fabricating various functional materials Naturally available materials have been playing an increasingly important role in many fields such as environmental remediation separation catalysis and polymer composites This book collects latest research results on the new composites for environmental application focusing on the study of fabricating functional composites using natural clay minerals Naturally available materials or solid waste or minerals are good precursors for producing adsorbents Composites based on sub bituminous coal lignite and a blend of coal and Irvingia gabonensis seed shells the Cl type Mg Al hydrotalcite Cl LDH the hydroxyapatite decorated with carbon nanotube and Zirconium Zr containing silica residue purification ZSR P were proved to have good adsorption capability to Cd II and Pb II ions antibiotic molecules Cd II and fluoride respectively The nano Mg OH 2 loaded carbon cloth showed good separation effect for Eu III and the sodium modified clinoptilolite showed good separation effect for CH₄ N₂ from coal bed gas Also natural nanoclay is an effective precursor for the preparation of inorganic inorganic or organic inorganic nano hybrid materials Using nano kaolinite as a carrier the inorganic inorganic hybrid cobalt blue pigment with excellent color and stability can be obtained by surface co precipitation and in situ calcination crystallization process The intercalation of 7 amino 4 methylcoumarin AMC molecules into the interlayer space of montmorillonite MMT can effectively inhibit fluorescence quenching and improve the detection effectiveness of Cr VI in water The interlayer space of kaolinite can accommodate organic molecules to form an organic inorganic hybrid composite Natural clay minerals are also effective carriers for catalysts Er₃ CeO₂ palygorskite nanocomposites prepared by a facile precipitation method showed excellent desulfurization rate under visible light irradiation The zero valent iron loaded nanoclays composite catalysts can degrade efficiently Rhodamine 6G Rh 6G under microwave irradiation In addition the polymer composites have been developed using natural palygorskite montmorillonite nanosheets or silica nanoparticles as inorganic components which are potential to be used in many fields such as packing biomedicine or rubber With the increasing attention to clay minerals research methods for the microstructure of clay minerals continue to receive attention. It is no doubt that natural materials have got a booming attention from researchers in mineralogy, materials science, chemistry, energy, biomedicine and other fields due to their advantages. However, there is still a long way to go to substitute traditional synthetic nanomaterials with natural ones and there are still theoretical and technological limitations in the design and synthesis of new materials from natural materials. Related theoretical research and technological development require continuous exploration by researchers. This book has collected some recent advances in related research and hopes to play a role in attracting more attention to the construction of functional materials from natural raw materials. It is also believed that through the unremitting efforts of all researchers, the dream of green materials and green preparation processes can be realized.
