

Paper Example. Personality Assessment Essay

Human and personnel resources play a critical role in enhancing goal attainment in businesses. Organizational managers are often faced with a mandate to assess and select an appropriate lot of employees and candidates depending on the personal capacity to prolifically contribute toward realization, attainment, and sustenance of organizational goals and vision. Personality assessment is one of the essential procedures that befit the analysis of personal capacities that could be channeled toward the performance and competencies of the workforce in the business. Notably, personality assessment inventories enhance reflection and regrouping of strategies that aim to guarantee discreet performances among the workforce at both the individual and group levels. This paper portrays an in-depth analysis and discussion of Keirsey Temperament Sorter and Myers-Briggs Type Indicator as the core personality assessment inventories when it comes to hiring decisions to source a qualified all-round assortment of employees that can help in achieving and sustaining organizational goals.

Critical Evaluation of Personality Assessment Inventories

Personality assessment inventories are essential for indicating the potentialities of the people at the individual and group levels. The essence of adopting these procedures in business strategies is to provide human, and personnel resource managers with an insight of the strengths and weaknesses as well as the overall potentialities candidates have (Parra & Argibay, 2016). Such information is essential for revamping and instituting talent recruitment criteria to befit to the needs and requirements of the businesses that strategically invest in human and personnel resources for the sake of fostering goal achievement such as an unbeatable competitive advantage on the market (Weiner & Greene, 2017). In light of the imperative role of effectiveness in the management of human resources, a critical evaluation of the Keirsey Temperament Sorter and Myers-Briggs Type Indicator theoretically informs what to anticipate amid the adoption of these inventories at the business level.

Keirsey Temperament Sorter

The Keirsey Temperament Sorter is a self-assessment personality questionnaire that is often adopted with an aim to enhance a better understanding of oneself and team members. The questionnaire penetrated the market through the book Please Understand Me, and it is among the most commonly used assessments globally (Parra & Argibay, 2016). The user base is comprised of a wide range of employers such as Allstate, the US Air Force, IBM, and Coca-Cola, among others (Abdullah, Shariff, & Harun, 2018). The tool is comprised of about seventy questions that reflect one's capacity from reaction to stimuli and a wide range of varied occasions. Further, Abdullah and colleagues (2018) infer that through the use of seventy questions to portray personality traits, taste analytically, and preferences sufficiently addresses the areas that could accurately infer regarding personality behaviours and reactions toward specified scenarios.

A wide range of questions reflects the way individuals could react to changes, social environments, problem-solving, and situational analysis. For instance, one of the questions asks whether one is
