Planning questions taken from PAPER 42

1. OCT/NOV/2022

A student is provided with two bottles labelled A and B and a supply of water.

One of the bottles contains 1.00g of solid potassium chloride, KCl.

The other bottle contains 1.00g of solid calcium chloride, CaCl₂.

When potassium chloride dissolves in water the change is endothermic.

When calcium chloride dissolves in water the change is exothermic.

Plan experiments, based on dissolving the solids in water, to decide:

- which compound is in each bottle
- which compound produces the greatest heat change per gram of solid.

Your plan may use any of the apparatus normally found in a chemistry laboratory but no other chemicals. Your plan must state all the measurements you need to make. Your plan must use the same experimental procedure for each solid. [6]

ANSWER: answers shown below are just the keypoint for your guidance. You need to write a complete sentence.

M1 both solids stirred with water [1]

M2 ANY reference to temperature or thermometer [1]

M3 equal volumes of water [1]

M4 temperature rise = calcium chloride [1]

M5 temperature fall = potassium chloride [1]

M6 largest temperature change = greatest heat change [1]

Your answers must be written in full sentence, see below:-

- Add equal volume of water to both solids and stir.
- After stirring, measure the temperature of both solutions using thermometer.
- If the temperature increases, it means it is exothermic and this indicates that the solid is calcium chloride. If the temperature decreases, it means it is endothermic and this indicates that the solid is potassium chloride.
- If the temperature change is higher, means the compound produces the greatest heat change per gram of solid.

2. MAY/JUNE/2022

A mixture of solids contains barium sulfate and sodium chloride only. Barium sulfate is insoluble in water. Sodium chloride is soluble in water. Describe how to separate the mixture to obtain pure barium sulfate and pure crystals of sodium chloride. [6]

ANSWER: answers shown below are just the keypoint for your guidance. You need to write a complete sentence.

M1 add water to the mixture

M2 stir

M3 filter (barium sulfate)

M4 wash the residue (barium sulfate) with distilled water

M5 heat the filtrate (sodium chloride)

M6 until saturated
