Severe Weather Warnings: An Interdisciplinary Approach

William Donner, Havidan Rodriguez, Jerald Brotzge, Walter R. Diaz, 2022-08-24 This book offers a comprehensive description and analysis of natural hazard warnings drawing on perspectives from the social sciences physical sciences and interdisciplinary fields such as disaster studies to articulate a distinction between traditional warnings and what might be called interdisciplinary warnings Traditional warnings approach warning technology design and application from a principally scientific and technical perspective Human factors while considered often are of secondary concern Interdisciplinary warnings on the other hand maintain a critical emphasis on the technical merits of warning systems but also ask Will psychological and community factors such as culture and structure shape how the system is used and if so can this information be incorporated into system design preemptively to make it more effective Given the absence of systematic work on interdisciplinary warnings a book length monograph discussing and synthesizing knowledge from the various fields focused on warnings and warning response is of critical importance to both academics and practitioners Broadly conceived the book presents readers with an in depth overview of warnings interdisciplinary research and interdisciplinary collaboration The book holds appeal for a very broad audience scholars practitioners and academic vocational and technical instructors both in University and non University settings It is of interest to academic scholars due to the interdisciplinary treatment of warnings as well as the general presentation of up to date scholarship on warning theory Additionally scholars interested in interdisciplinary work in general and those focusing on disaster warnings find within the volume a framework for developing collaborative research partnerships with those from other disciplines As well the book offers practitioners emergency managers mitigation specialists planners etc a more comprehensive perspective on emergency response in practice allowing for better development and application of warning policy Finally the book appeals to instructors both inside and outside the academy The authors envision the book useful to professors teaching both graduate and undergraduate level courses in Sociology of Disaster Emergency Management Planning Homeland Security Disaster Response Disaster Mitigation and Business Continuity and Crisis Management A robust market also exists among professional organizations perhaps most notably FEMA which offers countless online and in person training courses via the National Training Program Emergency Management Institute EMI and other venues for the development of a new kind of business leadership Global needs call for a revision of market capitalism and a move towards moral capitalism a move from value to values from shareholders to stakeholders and from balance sheets to balanced development Kofi Annan With the challenge of this transition in mind this book argues that it is time for a new understanding of leadership a new romanticism which looks behind the overvalued heroic leadership notion The editors explore a romanticized rhetoric and situate it within current discourses of authentic distributed and ethical leadership where societal economic and environmental challenges require us to take a collective lead towards doing good and growing well Exploring this dichotomy of romantic ideal and essential requirement this book combines the insights of leading academics and with those of practitioners in the field Thought provoking and engaging it will challenge both thinking and practice and is essential reading for all those operating or researching in the field of leadership particularly those who realize the overwhelming challenges of sustainability and corporate social responsibility which the world now faces      FAA/NASA Joint University Program for Air Transportation Research 1992-1993 ,1994      A Prototype Windflow Modeling System for Tactical Weather Support Operations John M. Lanicci,1987 This report documents the culmination of a three year development and testing effort on a two dimensional x y plane surface layer windflow model for complex terrain The model was acquired from the U S Army Atmospheric Sciences Laboratory ASL at White Sands New Mexico in 1984 The version of the model described in this report has been adapted to run using real time data on both the Zenith 100 and IBM compatible Zenith 248 computers The model accepts input of a single surface observation or forecast of wind temperature and cloud cover and uses this information along with terrain information and the date time to diagnose the surface layer stability The model then performs a variational analysis of the windfield adjusting the winds through a relaxation technique until the windfield conforms to effects of topography stability ambient flow conditions and mass continuity The model is designed to produce high resolution wind analyses typically running on domains on the order of 10 X 10 km with horizontal grid spacing of 100 to 200 m We present an overview of potential military and nonmilitary uses for the model and describe the relevant physics and computer architecture of the model and its two utility plotting routines A user s guide included here as Section 4 is primarily aimed at providing operational users such as forecasters some guidelines for using the model and interpreting the output Finally we present the results of an operational test of the model in support of Army Special Forces operations at Ft Devens Massachusetts The test results illustrate the model s potential as a tactical weather support tool for low level aviation and paradrop activities      Energy Research Abstracts ,1989      Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1985
