Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness of 10-year-old children. The study was conducted in a primary school in the city of Ankara, Turkey. The study group consisted of 20 children (10 boys and 10 girls) who were randomly selected from the 10-year-old children in the school. The children were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group did not participate in any physical education program, while the experimental group participated in a 12-week training program. The physical fitness of the children was measured at the beginning and at the end of the 12-week period. The measurements included maximum heart rate, maximum oxygen consumption, maximum power, and maximum speed. The results of the study showed that the experimental group had significantly higher values for all four measurements at the end of the 12-week period compared to the control group. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the physical fitness of 10-year-old children.

Care Communication Peter Backhaus, 2017-03-27 This book studies communication in institutional eldercare It is based on audio recorded interactions between residents and staff in a Japanese care facility The focus is on the morning care routines which include getting the residents out of bed and ready for the day Combining quantitative and qualitative methods the analysis explores the characteristics of care communication as they become manifest in the interactional small print Topics include the use of terms of address and formal speech the basic organisation of openings and closings the difficulties of talking while working and at times working while talking and tempo differences between residents and staff as they move along between bed and breakfast The research findings are contextualised with results from previous studies tracing significant features and explanation for deviant cases The author is a trained linguist and certified nursing assistant with first hand working experience in institutional eldercare Educating Citizen Designers in South Africa Elmarie Costandius, Herman Botes, 2018-09-07 Educating Citizen Designers in South Africa is the first book of its kind to appear in post apartheid South Africa and it is therefore both overdue and extremely welcome The book aims at sharing critical citizenship design teaching and learning pedagogies by including contributions from a range of design educators and one student who work in different design disciplines such as architecture graphic and product design Critical citizenship education is explicated in relation to a range of theories and new and existing models Numerous contemporary case studies and examples of design projects from a range of South African Higher Education Institutions are included As such a variety of perspectives emerge including the consensual where the aim of critical citizenship education is viewed as promoting social justice shared values and critical thinking to the conflicting where critiques are levelled against conceptions of critical citizenship education Contentious contesting and contradictory views are inevitable and necessary given the South African context as it is only in open debate that the one point of agreement among the authors the need for social change can be worked towards Prof Deirdre Pretorius Univeristy of Johannesburg Invisible Solar System Martin Connors, 2024-02-12 When we look at a starry night sky we are looking out through vast invisible expanses of our own Solar System The planets appearing as bright specks have been revealed as worlds by space missions However the invisible spaces between them are equally interesting Unseen forces such as the effect of gravity spiraling magnetic fields and subatomic particles originate from the Sun Celestial bodies too small to see form unexpected patterns while atoms and nuclei are hidden even if in our own bodies Weaving the history of discovery with clear explanations Invisible Solar System pulls back the cloak of invisibility under which myriad aspects of the local region of space are connected Features Gravity originally seen as an invisible force is now revealed as a curvature of spacetime and even in its simple form enables amazing patterns to form The smallest particles have other structures that enable them to interact powering the present Solar System while also giving clues to nuclear events past and present Long range forces of electricity and magnetism connect the Sun and planets dominating the hot plasma gas of space while protecting us from cosmic rays via multiple layers of magnetic shields Art in Chicago Maggie Taft, Robert Cozzolino, 2018-10-24 For decades now the story of art in America has been dominated by New York It gets the majority of attention the stories of its schools and movements and masterpieces the stuff of pop culture legend Chicago on the other hand well people here just get on with the work of making art Now that art is getting its due Art in Chicago is a magisterial account of the long history of Chicago art from the rupture of the Great Fire in 1871 to the present Manierre Dawson L szl Moholy Nagy and Ivan Albright to Chris Ware Anne Wilson and Theaster Gates The first single volume history of art and artists in Chicago the book in recognition of the complexity of the story it tells doesn't follow a single continuous trajectory Rather it presents an overlapping sequence of interrelated narratives that together tell a full and nuanced yet wholly accessible history of visual art in the city From the temptingly blank canvas left by the Fire we loop back to the 1830s and on up through the 1860s tracing the beginnings of the city's institutional and professional art world and community. From there we travel in chronological order through the decades to the present. Familiar developments such as the founding of the Art Institute, the Armory Show, and the arrival of the Bauhaus are given a fresh look, while less well-known aspects of the story like the contributions of African American artists dating back to the 1860s or the long history of activist art finally get suitable recognition. The six chapters, each written by an expert in the period, brilliantly mix narrative and image weaving in oral histories from artists and critics reflecting on their work in the city and setting new movements and key works in historical context. The final chapter, comprised of interviews and conversations with contemporary artists, brings the story up to the present, offering a look at the vibrant art being created in the city now and addressing ongoing debates about what it means to identify as or resist identifying as a Chicago artist today. The result is an unprecedentedly inclusive and rich tapestry, one that reveals Chicago art in all its variety and vigor, and one that will surprise and enlighten even the most dedicated fan of the city's artistic heritage. Part of the Terra Foundation for American Art's year-long Art Design Chicago initiative, which will bring major arts events to venues throughout Chicago in 2018, Art in Chicago is a landmark publication, a book that will be the standard account of Chicago art for decades to come. No art fan, regardless of their city, will want to miss it.

Language, Gender and Parenthood Online Jai Mackenzie, 2018-08-06. Language, Gender and Parenthood Online explores the digital interactions of parents on the UK-based internet discussion forum Mumsnet, a space dominated by users sharing a common identification as women parents and mothers. Using a qualitative approach grounded in feminist poststructuralist theory, Jai Mackenzie uncovers common-sense assumptions about gender and parenthood, explores the construction of gender and parenthood in digital contexts, and how discourses of gendered parenthood are negotiated, resisted, and subverted. This is key reading for students, scholars, and researchers in the field of language and gender, as well as language and digital communication.

Storytelling Against Extremism Linda Schlegel, 2025-05-23. Counter and alternative narrative CAN campaigns have become a widely used tool in contemporary efforts to prevent and/or counter violent extremism (P-CVE). However, one element is conspicuously absent from the discourse: There is little engagement with CANs as narratives, and neither CAN theory nor practice are based on existing research findings on narrative persuasion processes. This is a crucial gap in the current CAN approach. Not situating CANs within the broader discourse on narrative persuasion and drawing from the insights narrative persuasion studies offer significantly weakens the theoretical foundation, practical development, storytelling quality, and analysis of CAN campaigns. This book addresses this research gap and transfers concepts, theories, and insights from narrative persuasion and storytelling research to the context of P-CVE narrative campaigns. The author demonstrates that the often-criticized CAN approach can be improved significantly by understanding CANs as narrative persuasion campaigns and grounding them in existing research detailing how to tell entertaining and persuasive stories.
