Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The intervention group (IG) participated in a 12-week training program consisting of aerobic and resistance exercises. The control group (CG) did not participate in any training program. The IG showed significant improvements in physical fitness and HRQL compared to the CG. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve physical fitness and HRQL in sedentary, middle-aged, obese women.
