

Tycon Power TP-SCPOE-1224 POE/Solar up to 130W panel 12V In 24 POE out

Overview

Tycon Power Systems unique POE/Solar charge controllers with built-in POE Inserter have dual inputs to charge batteries from a POE source and also a secondary source like solar panels in order to provide redundancy and insure 100% uptime for critical applications. The solar panel takes priority so that when the sun is shining the grid power usage is minimized. They have a built in POE inserters and the 12V battery model has integral DC to DC converter that delivers 12V, 18V, 24V or 48V at the POE port.

Features

- Dual Input - Charges 12V or 24V Batteries from Solar Panel and / or Passive POE
- Built in DC to DC converter with various Passive POE output voltages available: 12V, 18V, 24V, 48V
- Compact and high temperature operation
- Low self consumption < 0.5W

Applications

- Remote Power Systems; Surveillance, Sensors
- Wireless Stations ; AP / Client / Repeaters
- UPS Systems ; Lighting, Fences, Gates

Techniques for Battery Charger System (Power Electronics) Irfan Jamil, Jinquan Zhao, 2015-02-26 The short summary and promotional piece accompanying a creative work is about for battery charger system using ZCS PWM Resonant Converter Dc Dc Buck The aim and scope of this work to investigate the high efficiency of charging for battery level The idea is forced to gain high efficiency low circuit volume minimize switching losses and satisfactory performance The brief discussion of battery charger system and on use able functional methods The short study of circuit descriptions operating modes output voltage gain and normalized voltage gain is also summarized This high repetitious work which will give gratification fulfillment with the theoretical predictions to readers I have special thanks to Engr Rizwan Jamil to help me with research and development of the scope of this work

Power Quality Test Procedures for Plug-In Electric Vehicle Chargers Hybrid - EV Committee, 2015 This recommended practice provides test procedures for evaluating PEV chargers for the parameters established in SAE J2894 1 Power Quality Requirements for Plug In Electric Vehicle Chargers In addition this Recommended Practice provides procedures for evaluating EVSE charger battery vehicle systems in terms of energy efficiency which is a subset of power quality This expansion of scope from J2894 1 was requested by the stakeholders and it provides relevance to the system level analyses that are current in state and federal processes In accordance the scope includes the energy storage system and the input and output of that system In consideration of evaluation a system boundary is established The system boundary defines the tested elements and the measurement points The system boundary for most of the systems expected to be evaluated under this Recommended Practice is shown in Figure 1 In this system boundary the parts of the battery charging system that are included for evaluation are the EVSE the battery charger BC the system powering auxiliary loads and the battery It should be noted that this is a change from the original text of J2894 1 but it was essential for the purposes of system analysis to include all the elements such as the EVSE to evaluate efficiency and response to events In terms of power quality and efficiency the effects of this change should be minor Note that no distinction is made about the battery or the auxiliary loads which may include fans chillers or other thermal management devices Note that some systems may require multiple measurement points to capture all auxiliary loads Figure 2 shows the system boundary for an off board charging system Figure 3 shows the special case of an EVSE under test with a testing tool Note that all systems include an EVSE device EVSE devices can introduce variance in test results Therefore all system test results must be recorded for and are only valid for the tested combinations Auxiliary loads include all of the separable electrical loads on the vehicle while charging and discharging that are necessary for safe and effective operation and sufficient battery life but are separate from energy going into the battery that later does work Examples of auxiliary loads Control modules Active battery cooling and heating system components Data systems or telematics Cabin comfort systems Cooling Heating 12V system support charging auxiliary or starting battery In 2011 SAE issued power quality requirements for plug in electric vehicle PEV chargers in response to rising sales of PEVs and concerns about their potential impact on utility systems and on other devices connected adjacent to them. Electrical power is delivered upon demand and utility systems are impacted by demand or power and the duration of that demand. Distinctions must be made about real power which does work and apparent power which is the impact on the electrical system. The integration of transportation and the electric grid imposes concerns about not only serving demand and making sure that not only are existing deliveries made but the additional load of vehicle chargers as well. Utilities must work to ensure reliability and quality of service. Computer equipment and controls are impacted negatively by distortions such as harmonics so PEV chargers like most all electronics must limit potentially disruptive effects. In addition to impacts of equipment on the grid the equipment itself must be reliable and effective when presented with effects impressed upon it as can occur with the wide variety of loads and conditions that could emerge on the modern grid. Therefore criteria were established to ensure that PEV charging equipment could continue to operate after encountering such grid events. These recommendations were presented in SAE J2894 1 Power Quality Requirements for Plug In Electric Vehicle Chargers. This recommended practice provides the test procedures for measuring the criteria. Since the power quality recommended practice was issued interest has emerged for measuring and regulating energy efficiency of battery charging systems on state and federal levels. Battery chargers have historically only been judged for efficiency instantaneously on a power conversion basis as battery charging systems also include a battery which is a variable energy reservoir and a vehicle with auxiliary systems and controls. However recent efforts have established energy efficiency measurement methods based on a systems approach. With these methods grid energy input is measured against useful output. As there is not yet clear direction on things like allowable auxiliary loads this recommended practice maintains the measurements in separate bins and provides suggested limits.
