Higher Education ICT Integration in Africa Ke Yu, Reuben Dlamini, 2024-08-21 This multidisciplinary edited volume examines higher education's ICT integration in Africa contributing a new and inclusive change readiness framework to better understand how to manage ICT or other technological disruptions in resource-restrained contexts. Tackling ICT incorporation in HEIs from different levels, chapters document case studies from countries such as Uganda, South Africa, Rwanda, Eswatini, and Zimbabwe to demonstrate both the complexity of integration but also the successes it has enabled and under which conditions. The cases included in this book also exhibit better incorporation of both change content and process while some cases also make explicit reference to other technology adoption models. Ultimately, the book highlights conceptual and empirical research to inform practices and policy development in Africa, improving multi-level success or change readiness in ICT incorporation in HEIs in Africa. Addressing various gaps in existing literature and proposing innovative solutions like the multilevel change readiness model, this book will therefore be of interest to scholars, researchers, and academics in the fields of higher education, ICT integration, and educational technology more broadly. The Open Access version of this book is available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> and has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license.

Empress of the Nile Lynne Olson, 2024-02-20 New York Times Book Review Editors' Choice. The remarkable story of the intrepid French archaeologist who led the international effort to save ancient Egyptian temples from the floodwaters of the Aswan Dam by the New York Times bestselling author of Madame Fourcade's Secret War. A female version of the Indiana Jones story, Christiane Desroches Noblecourt was a daredevil whose real-life antics put Hollywood fiction to shame. The Guardian. In the 1960s, the world's attention was focused on a nail-biting race against time: the international campaign to save a dozen ancient Egyptian temples from drowning in the floodwaters of the gigantic new Aswan High Dam. But the coverage of this unprecedented rescue effort completely overlooked the daring French archaeologist who made it all happen. Without the intervention of Christiane Desroches Noblecourt, the temples, including the Temple of Dendur now at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, would currently be at the bottom of a vast reservoir. It was an unimaginably complex project that required the fragile sandstone temples to be dismantled and rebuilt on higher ground. Willful and determined, Desroches Noblecourt refused to be cowed by anyone or anything. As a member of the French Resistance in World War II, she survived imprisonment by the Nazis in her fight to save the temples; she defied two of the most daunting leaders of the postwar world, Egypt's President Abdel Nasser and France's President Charles de Gaulle. As she told one reporter, "You don't get anywhere without a fight, you know." Desroches Noblecourt also received help from a surprising source: Jacqueline Kennedy. America's new First Lady persuaded her husband to help fund the rescue effort. After a century and a half of Western plunder of Egypt's ancient monuments, Desroches Noblecourt helped instead to preserve a crucial part of that cultural heritage.

Plant Adaptations to Phosphate Deficiency Alex Joseph Valentine, Alejandra

Zúñiga-Feest,Aleysia Kleinert,Pablo Cornejo,Vagner A. Benedito,2021-05-18 Phosphate is an essential mineral to all plants and its availability in soils is an increasing challenge for agriculture Phosphate is abundant in soils but its biological availability is often low due to the complexes that it forms with soil minerals and compounds The biological availability of Phosphate is further reduced in acidic soils which represent approximately 40% of earth s arable agricultural lands Agricultural systems compensate Phosphate deficiency with fertilizers coming from the mining of rock phosphate which is estimated to exhaust within the next 50 years For these reasons Phosphate limitations in natural and agricultural ecosystems is going to become a global problem and we urgently need to better understand how plants respond to Phosphate deficiency

Russia-EU Relations and the Common Neighborhood Irina Busygina,2017-07-20 Examining Russia EU relations in terms of the forms and types of power tools they use this book argues that the deteriorating relations between Russia and the EU lie in the deep differences in their preferences for the international status quo These different approaches combined with economic interdependence and geographic proximity means both parties experience significant difficulties in shaping strategy and formulating agendas with regards to each other The Russian leadership is well aware of the EU s authority orientation but fails to reliably predict foreign policy at the EU level whilst the EU realizes Russia s coercive orientation in general but cannot predict when and where coercive tools will be used next Russia is gradually realizing the importance of authority while the EU sees the necessity of coercion tools for coping with certain challenges The learning process is ongoing but the basic distinction remains unchanged and so their approaches cannot be reconciled as long as both actors exist in their current form Using a theoretical framework and case studies including Belarus Georgia and Ukraine Busygina examines the possibilities and constraints that arise when the power of authority and the power of coercion interact with each other and how this interaction affects third parties

Sudan's Unfinished Democracy Willow Berridge, Alex de Waal, Justin Lynch, 2022-08-01 This book tells the story of the Sudanese revolution of 2019 of how it succeeded in bringing down the long standing rule of President Omar al Bashir and of the troubled transitional civilian led government that was installed in his place It sets the scrupulously non violent uprising in its historical context showing how the protesters drew upon the precedents of earlier civic revolutions and adapted their practices to the challenges of the al Bashir regime The book also explores how that regime was brought to its knees through its inability to manage the intersecting economic and political crises caused by the secession of South Sudan and the loss of oil revenue alongside the uncontrolled expansion of a sprawling security apparatus The civilian protesters called for and expected a total transformation of Sudanese politics but they found themselves grappling with a still dominant cabal of generals who had powerful regional backers and a strong hold over the economy Internally divided and faced with a deepening economic crisis the civilian government led by Prime Minister Abdalla Hamdok has found itself in office but with less and less real power unable to change the conduct of political business as usual
