

for EATON 2-Speed AXLES

AXLE SHIFT UNIT

This unit shifts the axle into high or low range. Figure 4 shows the axle shift unit in the high range of the axle. In this position wire (b) (Fig. 3) carries current to one field of the motor (6) (See page 6 for Part Identification) so that the armature and drive screw (20) turn in a clockwise direction and move the nut down. When the nut has travelled a sufficient distance to wind the spring (23), a contact bumper on the nut breaks an electrical connection on the automatic switch (17) so that the motor is no longer energized and the armature ceases rotating. To make sure that the nut cannot travel back on the screw due to vibration, a ball screw detent spring (not shown) mounted on the cover (26) holds the nut at the end of its travel on the screw. The nut moves the spring winding lever (24) down which, pivoting on the pin (22), winds the tension spring (25) for high. Thus an increased load is put on the spring, and in this position the axle is ready to snap into the high speed ratio as soon as the load on the axle gears is relieved. The tension spring is assembled in the unit so that it is under 64 to 90 pounds pressure, depending on the size of the axle. When the spring winding lever is moved so that the spring is wound, the pressure of the spring is raised to from 95 to 135 pounds again depending on axle size.

This additional means is used to shift the axle, and when the shift is completed, the ends of the spring come together leaving the original tension of 64 to 90 pounds on the spring. This preload tension holds the axle in either gear.

SHIFT TO LOW

When the button is pushed down, the motor is energized so that the screw moves counter clockwise and the nut travels to the top winding the spring for a shift to low in the same manner as before.
