Brobjer, 2021-07-29 Challenging the standard interpretation of Nietzsche's last published work Ecce Homo as frivolous autobiography, Thomas H. Brobjer provides an original and detailed analysis of Ecce Homo as fundamental to Nietzsche's unfinished masterwork on the revaluation of all values. Arguing that Ecce Homo laid the foundations for his planned four-volume work on values, Brobjer draws together the intentions and motivations behind Nietzsche's late work to create a new narrative on it. He situates this period in the desire to undermine the system of Christian values that Nietzsche believed were unchecked as the standard moral gauge for his time. To engage in this project, Brobjer shows that it was essential for Nietzsche to explore the self and life-denying qualities of a Christian system of values within a broader framework of ideas about morality, altruism, egotism, pessimism, humility, and pride. By fully outlining the context of Ecce Homo, Brobjer provides a complete corrective to its reception as a self-referential and eccentric text of little philosophical significance, enabling a new understanding within the history of philosophy and Nietzsche's oeuvre. Ecce Homo Friedrich Nietzsche, 2009-01-30 Written in 1888 just before the final years of insanity that would plague Friedrich Nietzsche until his death in 1900 Ecce Homo is an insightful reflection by the author upon his own life and his impact on the world of philosophy In Ecce Homo Nietzsche offers his personal perspective on his various philosophical works including The Birth of Tragedy Thoughts out of Season Human All Too Human The Dawn of Day The Gay Science Thus Spoke Zarathustra Beyond Good and Evil The Genealogy of Morals The Twilight of the Idols and The Case of Wagner In this revealing little work we gain great insight into what Nietzsche was as he saw himself and a final reiteration of his core philosophy a rejection of the Christian ideal that asserts suffering as a noble necessity of life and of Christianity as the bastion of supreme morality

Ecce Homo (Classic Reprint) Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from Ecce Homo As it is my intention within a very short time to confront my fellow men with the very greatest demand that has ever yet been made upon them it seems to me above all necessary to declare here who and what I am As a matter of fact this ought to be pretty well known already for I have not held my tongue about myself But the disparity which exists between the greatness of my task and the smallness of my contemporaries is revealed by the fact that people have neither heard me nor yet seen me I live on my own self made credit and it is probably only a prejudice to suppose that I am Alive at all I do but require to speak to any one of the scholars who come to the Oberengadine in the summer in order to convince myself that I am not alive Under these circumstances it is a duty and one against which my customary reserve and to a still greater degree the pride of my instincts rebel to say Listen For I am sure and we a person For fear on my sake do not confound me
