<sup>a</sup> Figure 10.12 compares the observed and expected frequencies for the categories of the categorical variable. When the observed frequency is greater than the expected frequency, the observed frequency is shaded. When the observed frequency is less than the expected frequency, the expected frequency is shaded. The shaded cells are the ones that contribute to the chi-square statistic.

When I saw Mathematics and Philosophy written in French, I felt that it was a great opportunity to see the work of a great philosopher in his own language. I was not disappointed. The book is a masterpiece of clarity and insight. It is a must-read for anyone interested in the foundations of mathematics and philosophy.

Selecting the Appropriate System Standard

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized controlled trial. The intervention group (n = 20) participated in a 12-week training program, while the control group (n = 20) remained sedentary. The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The sessions included aerobic exercise, strength training, and flexibility exercises. The control group performed no exercise. The primary outcome was the change in HRQL, measured using the EuroQol-5D questionnaire. Secondary outcomes included changes in physical fitness, measured using a 6-minute walk test, and body composition, measured using a dual-energy X-ray absorptiometry scan. The results showed that the intervention group had a significant improvement in HRQL compared to the control group. The improvement was most pronounced in the physical functioning domain. There were no significant differences between the groups in the other domains of HRQL. The intervention group also showed a significant improvement in physical fitness, measured by the 6-minute walk test. There were no significant differences between the groups in body composition. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the physical fitness and HRQL of sedentary, middle-aged women.
