Legitimizing Television Media Convergence and Cultural Status explores how and why television is gaining a new level of cultural respectability in the 21st century Once looked down upon as a plug in drug offering little redeeming social or artistic value television is now said to be in a creative renaissance with critics hailing the rise of Quality series such as Mad Men and 30 Rock Likewise DVDs and DVRs web video HDTV and mobile devices have shifted the longstanding conception of television as a household appliance toward a new understanding of TV as a sophisticated high tech gadget Newman and Levine argue that television's growing prestige emerges alongside the convergence of media at technological industrial and experiential levels Television is permitted to rise in respectability once it is connected to more highly valued media and audiences Legitimation works by denigrating ordinary television associated with the past distancing the television of the present from the feminized and mass audiences assumed to be inherent to the old TV It is no coincidence that the most validated programming and technologies of the convergence era are associated with a more privileged viewership The legitimation of television articulates the medium with the masculine over the feminine the elite over the mass reinforcing cultural hierarchies that have long perpetuated inequalities of gender and class Legitimizing Television urges readers to move beyond the question of taste whether TV is good or bad and to focus instead on the cultural political and economic issues at stake in television's transformation in the digital age

Principles of marketing CRISTINA CALVO PORRAL, JOHN L. STANTON, 2017-03-08 Marketing reversed prior business logic 50 years ago and said the customer is king and the companies began to recognize that it was not just the product that was the most important aspect of their business Companies recognized that consumers had a myriad of choices of product offerings and marketing was responsible to ensure that the company's products had the benefits and attributes that customers wanted and were willing to pay for Today considering the technology development which influences every function of the company the focus of the successful marketing oriented companies has changed from the customer is king to the customer is a dictator However and despite the new trends in marketing like any social science marketing has basic principles and these principles need to be considered when making any type of marketing decisions So the major step of a student of marketing whether it is a young university student or an experienced business executive is to understand the principles of marketing and reading the present book will be the first step in accomplishing this task This book describes these basic principles of marketing and while the authors recognize that each decision may be slightly different from any previous decision the rules or principles remain the same The present book presents these basic marketing principles and tries to capture the essence of practical and modern marketing today Therefore the purpose of Principles of Marketing is to introduce readers to the fascinating world of marketing today in an easy enjoyable and practical way offering an attractive text from which to learn about and teach marketing
