Nickel Metal Hydride (NiMH) Batteries

Observe the following precautions when using Nikon EN-ELH1 and EN-ELH2 batteries.

- Do not interchange batteries between cameras or chargers, as this may lead to damage to the EN-ELH1 or EN-ELH2 battery-charger battery box.

⚠ Battery may become hot when charged. Observe this caution after handling batteries during or after charging. Batteries may become hot due to heating due to self-discharge or after charging under some conditions. This is normal and does not indicate a problem.

- New batteries and batteries that have been left unused for an extended period tend to lose their charge rapidly; this is normal for NiMH batteries and the batteries will accept a charge after being used and recharged accordingly.

- Batteries will become hot when exposed to high ambient temperatures.
- The battery and charger terminals are covered thoroughly with a protective film. Before charging, remove the protective film and other labels from the case. Always physically inspect battery performance.
- They are charged at an ambient temperature of 10–30°C (50–86°F).
- They are not recharged until fully exhausted (just until the orange light turns green (ON)) to help improve the cycle life of the battery on charging.
