Youth In South Africa Ariane De Lannoy, Malose Langa, 2021-05-05 South Africa is characterised by a youthful population and the challenges and possibilities that characterise the young generation are both warning signs and beacons of hope for a nation founded on social justice. Youth in South Africa Agency in visibility and national development takes stock of the nation's development as it affects young people. Authors offer both personal and professional insights into the ways in which the youth navigate their own pathways to adulthood. These include formal and informal engagements with politics as well as protest unemployment entrepreneurship education religion experiences with sexuality and violence and a multitude of other life experiences. Contributors paint a picture of the initiative agency and resilience of the youth as well as the challenges before them. Authors also identify the state of wait-hood faced by those unable to make the transition out of youth into full adulthood as a result of their socio economic circumstances and political context. By engaging these experiences and insights and primarily informed by the inputs of young people the authors highlight the limitations of existing youth policies and frameworks. The case is made for policy instruments to be informed by the lived experiences of the youth as they navigate a complex macrosocial environment and by the messages the youth communicate about the limitations of current approaches.

Women and the Military Ruth Margolies Beitler, Sarah M. Gerstein, 2021-04-07 This addition to the Women and Society around the World series explores the roles challenges and accomplishments of women in the military in countries across the globe. Around the world millions of men serve in their countries militaries be it on land on the seas or in the air. But while many militaries have opened all positions to women even those on the front lines others remain closed. Countries have cited a number of reasons for their policies including changing views of women and the military conscription and economic and demographic trends. Written by a professor of comparative

The book is organized by region exploring societal and cultural views of masculinity and war as well as factors influencing changing views of women and the military including conscription and economic and demographic trends. Stopping the Spies Jane Duncan, 2018-06-01. Is South Africa on its way to becoming a surveillance state and will it need a whistleblower? In 2013 former National Security Agency NSA contractor Edward Snowden leaked secret documents revealing that state agencies like the NSA had spied on the communications of millions of innocent citizens. International outrage resulted but the Snowden documents revealed only the tip of the surveillance iceberg. Apart from insisting on their rights to tap into communications, more and more states are placing citizens under surveillance, tracking their movements and transactions with public and private institutions. The state is becoming like a one-way mirror where it can see more of what its citizens do and say while citizens see less and less of what the state does owing to high levels of secrecy around surveillance. In this book Jane Duncan assesses the relevance of Snowden's revelations for South Africa. In doing so she questions the extent to which South Africa is becoming a surveillance society governed by a surveillance state. Duncan challenges members of civil society to be concerned about and to act on the ever-expanding surveillance capacities of the South African state. Is surveillance used for the democratic purpose of making people safer or is it being used for the repressive purpose of social control, especially of those considered to be politically threatening to ruling interests? She explores the forms of collective action needed to ensure that unaccountable surveillance does not take place and examines what does and does not work when it comes to developing organised responses.

Africa's Threatened Rhinos Keith Somerville, 2025-01-14. Africa's surviving rhinos are under serious threat. Poaching for their horns, massive extermination by sports hunters in the nineteenth and first half of the twentieth century and progressive habitat loss have all driven black and white rhino close to the edge. This book considers human interactions with these magnificent and enigmatic animals, charting hunting for food and hides and then hunting for horn to meet external demand for this much-coveted commodity as well as peaceful coexistence over the course of three millennia. With only two females alive in a closely protected reserve in Kenya, the Northern White Rhino is on the brink of extinction. The Southern White Rhino was increasing in numbers but poaching in South Africa, Botswana and Namibia has now reduced the population to fewer than 20,000 while Black Rhino are hovering around the 6,000-6,500 mark, also with the danger of extirpation everywhere but in parts of eastern and southern Africa Many books have been written on poaching and the decline of the rhino often from a very personal engaged viewpoint This volume takes the reader into important new territory showing how human agency has led to the situation we now face Covering the history of commercial and sporting exploitation of rhino it brings the picture up to date with an overview of contemporary conservation and anti poaching operations This urgent work is a significant contribution to our understanding of wildlife on the African continent
