Abstract

[illegible]

- Abstract: A qualitative study was conducted about the experience of nursing students during their clinical practice. The sample consisted of 10 students from a nursing school in Brazil. Data were collected through semi-structured interviews and analyzed by thematic analysis. The results showed that the students experienced various challenges during their clinical practice, such as lack of knowledge, lack of resources, and lack of support from the faculty. The study highlights the importance of providing adequate training and support for nursing students during their clinical practice.
