Banking and Currency Committee,1975 The Case for an International Banking Standard Morris Goldstein,1997-04-01 This study presents the case for an international banking standard IBS to deal with the rash of banking crises in developing countries Over the past 15 years almost three fourths of the IMF s member countries have experienced at least one serious bout of banking problems

there have been at least a dozen developing country episodes where the costs of these crises amounted to 10 percent or more of the country's GDP and the total public sector resolution costs of developing country banking crises have been estimated to be 250 billion. Not only are these banking crises extremely costly to developing countries they also pose increased risk to industrial countries. Morris Goldstein demonstrates that existing international agreements do not address the main sources of these crises and the adoption of a voluntary IBS offers a more attractive route to banking reform than the relevant alternatives. The study recommends minimum standards in eight key areas of banking supervision and addresses the operational issues associated with the design and implementation of an IBS.

Financial Institutions Restructuring and Services Act of 1981 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs, 1981

U.S. Bank Behavior in the Wake of the 2007-2009 Financial Crisis Mr. Adolfo Barajas, Mr. Ralph Chami, Ms. Dalia Hakura, Mr. Thomas F. Cosimano, 2010-05-01

The paper examines the slowdown of lending by large U.S. banks over the period 2007Q3-2009Q2 focusing on i) whether capital or liquidity was the binding constraint ii) factors influencing banks' decision to hold capital and iii) their pricing behavior. Using quarterly data for the largest U.S. banks the paper finds that capital rather than liquidity constrained lending. Banks took actions to increase capital by slowing lending and raising profit margins not fully passing through the Federal Reserve's interest rate cuts. Banks optimally choose capital based on the expected future demand for loans and the marginal cost of capital.
