human trafficking one of the most serious human rights challenges in today's world of globalization and migration. Based on thorough empirical research and extensive comparative studies, Shin illuminates complex realities of migrant individuals experiencing trafficking situations and the problems of the current anti-trafficking regime driven by destination countries' self-interest in crime and border control. Shin suggests an alternative transnational human rights framework in which victimized migrants who have been treated as passive targets of victim witness protection or immigration regulation finally attain their true voices as empowered rights holders and effectively exercise their human civil and labor rights. Shin received the 2014-2015 Ambrose Gherini Prize, the highest prize awarded in the field of International Law by Yale Law School for her doctoral dissertation on which this book is based. Rural Lifestyles, Community Well-being and Social Change: Lessons from Country Australia for Global Citizens Angela T. Ragusa, 2014-01-08. In our increasingly global world, individuals are highly mobile and interconnected. Politics, policies, and technologies foster interconnection amongst and within countries as individuals relocate from one place to another. One key issue facing developed and developing countries is urban overcrowding. In Australia, urban density is one factor prompting institutions and individuals to embrace rural revival as a possible solution to urban congestion and rural decline. In the past decade, rural Australia has received heightened publicity and interest as a lifestyle destination encouraged by national decentralization policies to alleviate urban overcrowding, particularly the metropolises Melbourne and Sydney. Regional councils marketing initiatives and international refugee relocation. Rural communities struggle in contrast with urban counterparts for several often complex reasons. The realities of rural life are frequently marginalized while marketing campaigns evoke stereotypical imagery of idyllic lifestyles and bucolic pastures to sell dreams of country bliss to fatigued urbanites. This edited e-book is a collection of articles that explores rural realities of country life in Australia for global audiences interested in rurality, health, and well-being. By transcending disciplinary specific boundaries, this multi-disciplinary book not only presents contemporary challenges but also equips readers with evidence-based knowledge to improve resilience in communities and individuals facing key issues such as aging, depression, disability, environmental degradation, limited service delivery, and social isolation. Utilizing a variety of social science research methods, each chapter will enhance readers' insights about rural amenities, geography, identity, culture, health, and governance, which impact wellbeing and lifestyle satisfaction. Collectively, this book exposes readers to ideas from a dynamic range of experts in the humanities, social, and natural sciences to encourage a holistic approach to developing solutions for a complex social world. The content of this volume will interest a wide audience of graduates and undergraduates, researchers, professional practitioners, and policymakers involved with non-profit and government organizations and interested community members.
