

When my teachers come to school,
They look fresh and cool.
With stacks of books in hand,
They take us through a magic land.
Their words fall like a sun's ray,
Who teaches to make us great one day.
They always have a smile on their face,
And allows us to learn at our own pace
They help us to move in our own way,
And teach us to grow day by day.
Teachers can't always be right,
But, unlike us, they'll never fight.
Teachers have a special place in my heart,
For teaching is the finest form of art.

Russian Society in the Nineteenth Century J. Laurence Black, 1975-12-15 Nicholas Karamzin 1766 1826 was a remarkably active thinker and writer during a time that was trying to all Europeans A first hand witness to the French Revolution Napoleonic suzerainty over Europe the burning of Moscow and the Decembrist revolt in St Petersburg he presented in his voluminous correspondence and published writings a world view that recognized the weaknesses of the Russian Empire and at the same time foresaw the dangers of both radical change and rigid autocracy Russian conservatism owes much to this man even though he would have agreed with very few of those who came after him and were called conservative he supported autocracy but was committed to enlightenment he abhorred constitutions The fact that his writing had lasting significance has rarely been challenged but the social and political nature of that contribution has never before been demonstrated Previous studies of Karamzin have dealt with his literary career This monograph focuses on the final third of his life on his career at court 1816-26 and on the cultural heritage he left to the Russian Empire As the historian of Russia most widely read by his and later generations his historical interpretations mirrored and helped shape the image Russians had of themselves Professor Black's study of Karamzin is crucial to any examination of Russia's enlightenment conservatism historical writing and national self-consciousness The Ohio Teacher Henry Graham Williams, 1903 American
