Characterization and Clinical Management of Dilated Cardiomyopathy Marco Merlo,2021-01-12 Dilated cardiomyopathy DCM is a particular phenotype of non ischemic systolic heart failure frequently recognizing a genetic background and affecting relatively young patients with few comorbidities Nowadays long term survival of DCM patients has been markedly improved due to an early diagnosis and uninterrupted and tailored follow up under constant optimal medical and non pharmacological evidence based treatments Nevertheless DCM is still one of the most common causes of heart transplantation in the western world Clinical management requires an integrated and systematic use of diagnostic tools and a deeper investigation of the basic mechanisms underlying the disease However several emerging issues remain debated

Specifically the genotype phenotype correlation the role of advanced imaging techniques and genetic testing the lack of appropriate risk stratification models the need for a multiparametric and multidisciplinary approach for device implantation and a continuous reclassification of the disease during follow up remain challenging issues in clinical practice Therefore the aim of this Special Issue is to shed the light on the most recent advancements in characterization and clinical management of DCM in order to unveil the conundrum of this particular disease
