Transactions on Large-Scale Data- and Knowledge-Centered Systems XXXI Abdelkader Hameurlain,Josef Küng,Roland Wagner,Tran Khanh Dang,Nam Thoai,2016-12-21 The LNCS journal Transactions on Large Scale Data and Knowledge Centered Systems focuses on data management knowledge discovery and knowledge processing which are core and hot topics in computer science Since the 1990s the Internet has become the main driving force behind application development in all domains An increase in the demand for resource sharing across different sites connected through networks has led to an evolution of data and knowledge management systems from centralized systems to decentralized systems enabling large scale distributed applications providing high scalability Current decentralized systems still focus on data and knowledge as their main resource Feasibility of these systems relies basically on P2P peer to peer techniques and the support of agent systems with scaling and decentralized control Synergy between grids P2P systems and agent technologies is the key to data and knowledge centered systems in large scale environments This the 31st issue of Transactions on Large Scale Data and Knowledge Centered Systems contains six revised selected papers from the 2nd International Conference on Future Data and Security Engineering FDSE 2015 and the 9th International Conference on Advanced Computing and Applications ACOMP 2015 which were held in Ho Chi Minh City Vietnam in November 2015 Topics covered include big data analytics data models and languages security and privacy complex business services and cloud data management Tramway and Railway World ,1898 Interstate Commerce Commission Reports ,1976-02 Railway Age ,1922 Liberalization of Trade in Legal Services Gilles Muller,2013-08-01 The internationalization of legal services and the development of corporate law firms have led to profound changes in the practice of law giving it a more commercial and international focus These changes coupled with a general intolerance of restrictions to competition have led governments to reconsider the way they regulate the profession Liberalization of trade in legal services takes place both at the multilateral level within the World Trade

Organization's General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS) and at the regional level within preferential trade agreements (PTAs). This book analyses the liberalization process that takes place at both levels. It is the first publication to undertake an in-depth analysis of the obligations contained in these agreements. Starting from an overview of the regulations related to legal services and focusing on barriers to cross-border legal services that result from these regulations, the analysis goes a long way towards pinpointing which regulations should be removed and which adopted or preserved in order to facilitate international trade in legal services. Insightful considerations explore the cross-border features of such elements as the following: cross-border mergers and acquisitions, intellectual property rights, new financial instruments, business-to-business dispute resolution mechanisms, business permits, company formation, tax burdens, regulatory compliance, transparency, rules of residency and local presence requirements, restrictions on e.g. ownership, investment entry, fee setting and advertising, and extension of accountancy disciplines to legal services. Noting that the most successful global law firms are not those that impose one single culture but rather those that harmonize many cultures around shared core values and a consistent approach to clients, the author has produced a timely and far-reaching work that is highly relevant for international legal practice. It is sure to be warmly welcomed by legal practitioners, government officials and policymakers in the legal services sector and advisors at governments and international organizations as well as by academics and researchers. Public
