This textbook is based on the NMC Essential Skills Clusters and covers all the key clinical skills required for effective and efficient practice in UK healthcare. The book maps the development of the student nurse in relation to clinical skill acquisition focusing not only on the dexterity aspects but also on the underpinning theory and the attitudinal aspects of skill delivery. Using a scenario based approach this book relates skills to real people and situations. In addition to providing instruction on how to perform clinical skills it will also ask the students to reflect and consider how these skills and related principles may be transferred to other situations and contexts. Above all the authors are offering students a friendly interactive and visual approach to skills acquisition. Written by an experienced team of clinical skills educators at the University of Central Lancashire Clinical Skills provides students and lecturers with up to date theory and evidence based practice scenarios and case studies activities to encourage reflection exercises for self assessment and skills practice a glossary references and further reading.

Musculoskeletal Disorders in Health-related Occupations Thomas Reilly, 2002. Annotation: The Biomed IV project researched musculoskeletal disorders in health related occupations. This work based on the project provides insight on the problems of musculoskeletal disorders and the means of their investigation. After a presentation of background to the project methodologies and applications are described and a set of reviews is provided in particular for the research techniques used by the various investigators. These include the application of precision stadiometry electromyography epidemiology the Delphi method and body composition analysis. Individual studies illustrate how hospital specialisms fit into the broader ergonomics context.
