Bronzino,Donald R. Peterson,2006-04-14 Over the last century medicine has come out of theblack bag and emerged as one of the most dynamic and advanced fields of development in science and technology Today biomedical engineering plays a critical role in patient diagnosis care and rehabilitation As such the field encompasses a wide range of disciplines from biology and physiolog Spatial memory - a unique window into healthy and pathological ageing Thomas Wolbers,Paul A Dudchenko,Emma R Wood,2015-01-09 The global population aged over 60 is set to rise dramatically in the coming decades In many countries the older population now faces the prospect of spending a quarter of their lives aged over 65 and a significant proportion will have to cope with cognitive decline associated with normal ageing or with dementia disorders Given that these fundamental demographic changes will pose a significant challenge to health care systems a detailed understanding of age related cognitive and neurobiological changes is essential in helping elderly populations maintain cognitive performance In addition developing sensitive biomarkers to identify those at risk of developing dementia is crucial for early and effective interventions To make inferences about the ageing process from the animal model back to the human rigorous behavioral paradigms must be used to ensure that the same function is being examined across species Given that similar navigational paradigms can easily be applied to humans and animals recent years have seen an expansion of studies attempting to bridge the gap between age related changes in animal and human spatial cognition These studies begin to suggest that disruptions in spatial computations are among the earliest indicators of impending cognitive decline In addition although many animal studies have identified pathological mechanisms with paradigms involving spatial navigation these mechanisms support many nonspatial cognitive functions as well As a consequence a successful characterization of how spatial processing changes in the ageing brain could reveal fundamental effects of cognitive ageing that could inform about general mechanisms underlying decline in perception mnemonic processing and multisensory integration Journal of Rehabilitation Research & Development ,1992
