When Did Grade R Teachers Will Get Increment:

Assessing Schools for Generation R (Responsibility) Michael P. Mueller, Deborah J. Tippins, Arthur J. Stewart, 2013-07-17
Today's youth will face global environmental changes as well as complex personal and social challenges. To address these issues, this collection of essays provides vital insights on how science education can be designed to better engage students and help them solve important problems in the world around them. Assessing Schools for Generation R: Responsibility includes theories, research, and practices for envisioning how science and environmental education can promote personal, social, and civic responsibility. It brings together inspiring stories, creative practices, and theoretical work to make the case that science education can be reformed so that students learn to meaningfully apply the concepts they learn in science classes across America and grow into civically engaged citizens. The book calls for a curriculum that equips students with the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and values to confront the complex and often ill-defined socioscientific issues of daily life. The authors are all experienced educators and top experts in the fields of science and environmental education, ecology, experiential education, educational philosophy, policy, and history. They examine what has to happen in the domains of teacher preparation and public education to effect a transition of the youth of America. This exciting, informative, sophisticated, and sometimes provocative book will stimulate much debate about the future direction of science education in America and the rest of the world. It is ideal reading for all school superintendents, deans, faculty, and policymakers looking for a way to implement a curriculum that helps build students into responsible and engaged citizens. The Youth Dividend Jan H. Hofmeyr, 2012 Creating Effective Teaching and Learning Spaces: Shaping Futures and Envisioning Unity in Diversity and Transformation Zilungile Lungile Sosibo, Eunice Ivala, 2021-09-07 Higher education in post-apartheid South Africa was always likely to attract academic interest, and yet there remains a dearth of research on creating teaching and learning spaces suitable for students from diverse backgrounds. Using examples from higher education institutions across the Southern African Developing Community (SADC) region, this volume explores the ways teaching and learning spaces are being used to advance the transformation agenda of higher education in these regions and provides concrete recommendations for the future. The book is sure to appeal to academics from a variety of disciplines, from African American and ethnic studies to education and sociology. It will be of particular interest to teacher trainers, administrators, and policy makers working in higher education and anyone else with a stake in managing cultural diversity in education. Risk and Opportunity Jan H.
