Faculty Perspectives on Vocational Training in South Africa Eunice Ivala, Chaunda Scott, 2019-03-06 The Cape Peninsula University of Technology CPUT is one of four Universities of Technology established by the South African government in 2005 with a focus on vocational training This book presents faculty experiences of CPUT's innovative work integrated learning and teaching model as well as findings from practice based research being done in the institution The purpose of this volume is to be a resource for other institutions in South Africa that wish to try similar strategies as well as a to trigger a community of practice with vocationally oriented institutions outside of South Africa

The Role of Intergovernmental Fiscal Transfers in Improving Education Outcomes Samer Al-Samarrai, The World Bank, Blane Lewis, 2021-07-23 The majority of the world's children live in countries where local governments are responsible for the provision of basic education services Although subnational governments manage their own education systems they often rely on transfers from the central government for funding The main purpose of this study is to assess how these fiscal transfers affect public funding for education and how they ultimately affect student schooling and learning outcomes Through a careful analysis of how fiscal transfers have affected education systems in different contexts the investigation develops a set of principles to support improvements in the design and implementation of transfer systems with a specific focus on the provision of education services The study is centered on seven country case studies that aim to answer a set of common research questions using a similar approach Country case studies were conducted in Brazil Bulgaria China Colombia Indonesia Sudan and Uganda The analysis shows that fiscal transfer mechanisms can improve the adequacy of public education spending reduce spending inequalities between regions and improve spending efficiency Moreover the study highlights that carefully designed and implemented transfer systems can help raise overall education outcomes and reduce education inequality This publication was funded by a grant from the Results in Education for All Children REACH trust fund at the World Bank REACH is supported by the government of Germany through the Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development the government of Norway through NORAD and the government of the United States of America through the U S Agency for International Development

Being a Teacher in Post-Apartheid South Africa Yusuf Sayed, Marcina Singh, 2025-05-01 In a compelling exploration of the challenges faced by newly qualified teachers NQTs in South Africa's evolving educational landscape this book provides an empirically grounded account of their experiences Drawing on extensive research it offers a poignant narrative that seeks to illuminate the nuanced journey these educators embark upon as they transition from teacher education spaces to the complex reality of classrooms in post Apartheid South Africa The book acts as a crucial platform for the voices of NQTs shedding light on the myriad enablers and disablers they encounter during this transformative period Timely and relevant it tackles pressing questions about the readiness of teacher education to prepare students for the demands of South African schools The book charts the transition from teacher education to active teacher for NQTs The lessons distilled from this research present a clarion call for a re assessment of teacher education policies and practices This book arrives at a pivotal moment as South Africa reviews its teacher education policies With the quality of initial teacher education programmes under scrutiny the book s critiques findings and recommendations serve as indispensable tools for policymakers arguing for the need to reconceptualise South African teacher education policies As South Africa strives to avoid a cycle of developing new teachers only to lose them due to inadequate support this book seeks to support educators policymakers and all those invested in the future of South African education toward creating a more socially just education system recognising the highly unequal society in which teachers work

Self-directed learning research: An imperative for transforming the educational landscape Elsa Mentz, Thabisile Buthelezi, Josef de Beer, Adri du Toit, Aubrey Golightly, Sarah Gravett, Marietjie Havenga, Anita Lubbe, Judah P. Makonye, Neal Petersen, Paulinah Phahamane, Jessica Pool, H.J. (Hennie) Steyn, Johannes (Hannes) L. van der Walt, Charl Wolhuter, 2016-12-31 This book will benefit specialists in the field of the education sciences It represents significant progress in knowledge production Self directed learning has become increasingly important not only for education in South Africa but also for education sciences in the international arena This is a result of the changing education landscape caused by the demands of the 21st century as well as the rapid change in knowledge production Learners should be equipped with skills to take responsibility for their own learning New innovative strategies should be incorporated into teaching and learning in order to meet the changing demands in education Traditional teacher centred practices are still the norm in most South African schools and higher education institutions and do not adequately prepare students for lifelong learning in the 21st century The content focuses on the theory behind self directed learning explores strategies such as cooperative learning problembased learning case based teaching and large group teaching that enhance self directed learning and the use of blended learning in a self directed learning environment The book demonstrates how self directed learning can be enhanced in mathematics computer science and life science education and through the use of student tutors for geography Digital technology could for example also be used in innovative ways for education in isiZulu folk poetry The findings are based on original empirical research and a sound theoretical conceptual framework In an environment of rapidly changing knowledge production this book responds to the challenge of how to equip learners with the necessary skills to take responsibility for their own learning The book presents innovative teaching and learning strategies for meeting the changing demands in education Group activities the responsibilities of learners and the obstacles that hinder their learning are analysed and the way in which educators can support them is discussed Educational values such as mutual trust are discussed and self directed assessment is explored This is a timely collective work authored by experts who subscribe to the approach of self directed learning Educators should discover new teaching and learning strategies and value the integration of self directed learning in the classroom

South African Schooling: The Enigma of Inequality Nic Spaull, Jonathan D. Jansen, 2019-11-05

This volume brings together many of South Africa's leading scholars of education and covers the full range of South African schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy numeracy teacher development and curriculum change. The book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions South African scholars are now grappling with. Are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they? In practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers' resources and learning outcomes? While decidedly local, these questions resonate throughout the developing world. South Africa today is the most unequal country in the world. The richest 10% of South Africans lay claim to 65% of national income and 90% of national wealth. This is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system. Two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most South African children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin, the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents. Looking back on almost three decades of democracy in South Africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation, justification and analysis. This is a landmark book on basic education in South Africa, an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in South Africa. The various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race, class and place. The book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved, what has not and why. Prof Lant Pritchett, Harvard University. There is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in South Africa. No surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers, early childhood education and adequate school resources, South Africa will continue to sacrifice its people's future to maintaining the privileges of the few. Prof Martin Carnoy, Stanford University. Altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume, if not an exact blueprint for the future, then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps. Dr Luis Crouch, RTI.

Learning to teach in post-apartheid South Africa Yusuf Sayed, 2018-11-30. Teacher education programmes seek to provide student teachers with the knowledge and expertise to provide quality teaching and learning in a diverse and challenging school context. Learning to Teach in post apartheid South Africa: Student Teachers Encounters with Initial Teacher Education addresses the complexities of teacher education programmes in preparing students to teach. It adds to the knowledge about teacher education contributing critical understanding of education and the schooling system. The book provides important insights to deepen researchers, academics, teacher education providers, policy makers and students' understanding of the importance to address equity, redress and quality in South African education in a post apartheid era.

This book further helps to build student teachers capacities to work creatively and to become active and critical agents of transformation It ultimately outlines the challenges face in designing and delivering successful Initial Teacher Education programmes and the impact this has on delivering equitable and quality education

Going to University. The Influence of Higher Education on the Lives of Young South Africans Jennifer Case, Delia Marshall, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities

Low-Income Students, Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa Melanie Walker, Monica McLean, 2022-07-15 This book explores learning outcomes for low income rural and township youth at five South African universities The book is framed as a contribution to southern and Africa centred scholarship adapting Amartya Sen s capability approach and a framework of key concepts capabilities functionings context conversion factors poverty and agency to investigate opportunities and obstacles to achieved student outcomes This approach allows a reimagining of inclusive learning outcomes to encompass the multi dimensional value of a university education and a plurality of valued cognitive and non cognitive outcomes for students from low income backgrounds whose experiences are strongly shaped by hardship Based on capability theorising and student voices the book proposes for policy and practice a set of contextual higher education capability domains and corresponding functionings orientated to more justice and more equality for each person to have the opportunities to be and to do what they have reason to value The book concludes that sufficient material resources are necessary to get into university and flourish while there the benefits of a university education should be rich and multi dimensional so that they can result in functionings in all areas of life as well as work and future study the inequalities and exclusion of the labour market and pathways to further study must be addressed by wider economic and social policies for inclusive learning outcomes to be meaningful and that universities ought to be doing more to enable black working class students to participate and succeed Low Income Students Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa makes an original contribution to capabilitarian scholarship conceptually in theorising a South based multi dimensional student well being higher education matrix and a rich reconceptualisation of learning outcomes as well as empirically by conducting rigorous longitudinal in depth mixed methods research on students lives and experiences in higher education in South Africa The audience for the book includes higher education researchers international capabilitarian scholars practitioners and policy makers

Different Resources, Different Conflicts?

Angelika Rettberg, Carlo Nasi, Ralf Leiteritz, Juan Diego Prieto, 2023-01-30 This book explores some of the risks associated with sustainable peace in Colombia The book intentionally steers away from the emphasis on the drug trade as the main resource fueling Colombian conflicts and violence a topic that has dominated scholarly attention Instead it focuses on the links that have been configured over decades of armed conflict between legal resources such as bananas coffee coal flowers gold ferronickel emeralds and oil conflict dynamics and crime in several regions of Colombia The book thus contributes to a growing trend in the academic literature focusing on the subnational level of armed conflict behavior It also illustrates how the social and economic context of these resources can operate as deterrents or as drivers of violence The book thus provides important lessons for policymakers and scholars alike Just as resources have been linked to outbreaks and transformations of violence peacebuilding too needs to take into account their impacts legacies and potential
