

New SAT Persuasion Analysis Essay Tips

#1: State a Clear, Plagiarized Thesis Listing Your Subtopic Points

What this means is that your essay needs to make a clear argument that the reader can easily identify. All you have to do to create your "precise central claim" is to identify the main idea of the passage and list the methods the author uses to support it. Fortunately, the SAT provides you with the passage's main idea, so you don't have to go hunting for it yourself. I've bolded the claim in this (fake) sample prompt so you can see this for yourself:

Write an essay in which you explain how in the article "Monsters, Monsters, Everywhere," Sam Lindsay builds an argument to persuade her audience that more works of art should feature monsters. In your essay, analyze how Lindsay uses one or more of the features listed in the box above (or features of your own choice) to strengthen the logic and persuasiveness of her argument. Be sure that your analysis focuses on the most relevant features of the passage. Your essay should not explain whether you agree with Lindsay's claims, but rather explain how Lindsay builds an argument to persuade her audience.

Now, here's an example of a thesis statement for an essay responding to this prompt:

In the article "Monsters, Monsters, Everywhere," Sam Lindsay uses pathos, logos, and ethos, to persuade her audience that more works of art should feature monsters.

It's fine to copy the exact words describing the author's central claim from the prompt into your thesis statement—in fact, this guarantees that the graders will see that your thesis is there and on-topic.

#2: Include Both an Introduction and a Conclusion

Including an introduction paragraph in your essay is absolutely essential to getting a Writing score above a 4/8. The introduction paragraph introduces the reader to what you'll be talking about and allows you to set up the structure for the rest of the essay. Plus, an introduction can be a pretty good indicator of the quality for the rest of the essay – a poorly constructed introduction is often a warning that the essay that follows will be equally discombobulated. It's best to have both an introduction and a conclusion, but if you're running short on time and can only have one, definitely pick the introduction. A good introduction includes your thesis statement. For the SAT essay, as I discussed in the previous point, your thesis (or your "precise central claim") should be a statement about what devices the author uses to build her/his argument.

I recommend this generic 4-sentence rhetorical question introduction tactic:

- Ask a "Why should" rhetorical question based on the issue in the article.
- Answer the question from the position that the author disagrees with: Some folks argue that...
- Answer the question from the author's position: Yet others contend that...
- State the topic sentence indicating the techniques the author used to advance his position.

Model:

Why should any self-respecting artist incorporate monsters and ghouls into his work? Some folks argue that monsters are artistic junk-food for immature audiences, laugh-worthy B-movies, and children's books. Yet others contend that monsters can appeal to mature, adult minds as well, since fear and evil are common denominators of the human condition. In the article "Monsters, Monsters, Everywhere," Sam Lindsay uses pathos, logos, and ethos to persuade her audience that more works of art should feature monsters.
