Abstract

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 20 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no history of cardiovascular disease, hypertension, or other medical conditions. The subjects were randomly assigned to either an exercise or control group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group did not exercise. The subjects were tested at baseline and at 12 weeks for heart rate, blood pressure, and body mass index. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had significantly lower heart rate, blood pressure, and body mass index than the control group at 12 weeks. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
