Language and Institutional Identity in the Post-Apartheid South African Higher Education Leketi

Makalela,2022-03-21 This book examines the intersections between education identity formation and language in post apartheid South Africa with specific attention to higher education It does so against the backdrop of the core argument that the sector plays a critical role in shaping re producing and perpetuating sectoral class sub national and national identities which in turn in the peculiar South African setting are almost invariably analogous with the historical fault lines determined and dictated by language as a marker of ethnic and racial identity The chapters in the book grapple with the nuances related to these intersections in the understanding that higher education language policies overt and or covert largely structure institutional cultures or what has been described as curriculum in higher education institutions Together the chapters examine the roles played by higher education by language policies and by the intersections of these policies and ethnolinguistic identities in either constructing and perpetuating or deconstructing ethnolinguistic identities upon which the sector was founded The introductory chapter lays out the background to the entire book with an emphasis on the policy and practice perspectives on the intersections The middle chapters describe the so called White Universities Black Universities and Middle Man Minorities Universities The final chapter maps out future directions of the discourses on language and identity formation in South Africa s higher education Functional Polymer Nanocomposites for Wastewater Treatment

Mpitloane Joseph Hato,Suprakas Sinha Ray,2022-03-01 This book provides an overview of the latest advances in applications of nanocomposites in wastewater treatment This book is dedicated to recent developments in the application of polymer nanocomposites to wastewater treatment Based on their morphology and tailored compositions polymer nanocomposites provide powerful tools for environmental remediation via selective adsorption of contaminants in complex environmental matrices. The book reviews recent progress in this field covering various nanocomposite fabrication routes and novel applications for pollutant sensing and detection. It includes discussion of different types of nanocomposites based on metal organic frameworks and hydrogels while also covering related topics such as nanocomposite membranes, photocatalysts and bio nanocomposites for pollution abatement. Ideal for researchers and engineers in the field, this collection of contributed chapters offers a timely review of current research in nanomaterials for cost effective pollution control technologies.

Processes on the Early Earth W. U. Reimold, Roger Lawrence Gibson, 2006-01-01 This Special Paper presents a collection of 19 papers contributed to a joint Field Forum organized by the Geological Society of America and the Geological Society of South Africa in July 2004 in the Barberton Greenstone Belt and the Vredefort Dome, South Africa. The papers cover a wide variety of themes including Archean and Proterozoic crust formation and geodynamics with an appraisal of evidence of Archean subduction processes, the significance of impacts in the evolution of the early Earth's crust, traces of early life in Archean environments of Australia and South Africa and related studies of depositional environments and processes affecting the giant Witwatersrand gold deposit. From microscope to kaleidoscope, 2008-01-01 What new understandings concerning children and significant others in their life worlds have become apparent because of the HIV/AIDS pandemic? This innovative book argues that new insights on education and psychosocial aspects surface when research in the realm of HIV/AIDS is viewed through a positive psychology lens. By converging in depth exploration and description, the book pinpoints vital persons supporting children's wellbeing and posits changed roles due to pandemic-related stressors. The significance of different education role players—children, teachers, caregivers, community members—is addressed in separate chapters using pioneering theory and empirical data that are integrated with dynamic case examples, visual data and narratives. Ebersohn's edited book emphasises supportive persons and networks as buffers, children access to mediate their coping when confronted by HIV/AIDS-related stressors. Throughout, the links between psychosocial support, changed roles and responsibilities and resilience in the advent of adversity are clearly and thoughtfully demonstrated. A concluding chapter questions why and what happens to children's wellbeing when society fails to provide supportive networks and services.

The Burden of Educational Exclusion, 2010-01-01 School was nothing but a taboo for me, concludes Johannah, a young South African, after recounting her life story. Johannah is one of the early school leavers who features in this book. Figures on participation in education in Africa show that despite government agreements and policies developed under the banner of Education for All, this remains a remote goal. In several countries, programmes on Universal Primary Education have improved access to education but do those who enter school remain there until they have reached a suitable level? Do they acquire enough competences at primary and secondary school to survive the tough daily life in sub-Saharan countries? What happens to children and young adults who leave school early? What measures can be taken to prevent them from doing so? This book is based on research carried out in Eastern and Southern Africa by scholars from Africa and the Netherlands who cooperated within the framework of the ESLA project The contributions to this book reflect the exchanges and discussions which took place in this research group initiated by staff of Mzumbe University in Tanzania Uganda Martyrs University and the University of Groningen in the Netherlands The group aims to go beyond figures and uncover the causes effects and stories of the young people involved as well as explore promising new strategies with which to address their needs As early school leaving is not exclusively an African problem a contribution on the Dutch situation is also included The book concludes that exclusion from education has far reaching effects not only for the young people involved but also for the society in which they live The burden of educational exclusion should be the joint responsibility of developing and developed countries The authors hope the book will contribute not only to a greater understanding of the phenomenon of early school leaving but also challenge it in terms of developing policies and programmes that can prevent educational exclusion and support those who already find themselves in such a situation
