Gentle, 2017-10-12 Matrix algebra is one of the most important areas of mathematics for data analysis and for statistical theory This much needed work presents the relevant aspects of the theory of matrix algebra for applications in statistics It moves on to consider the various types of matrices encountered in statistics such as projection matrices and positive definite matrices and describes the special properties of those matrices Finally it covers numerical linear algebra beginning with a discussion of the basics of numerical computations and following up with accurate and efficient algorithms for factoring matrices solving linear systems of equations and extracting eigenvalues and eigenvectors Recent Stability Issues for

Vandereycken, 2024-12-13 This book concerns matrix nearness problems in the framework of spectral optimization It addresses some current research directions in spectral based stability studies for differential equations with material on ordinary differential equations ODEs differential algebraic equations and dynamical systems Here stability is interpreted in a broad sense which covers the need to develop stable and reliable algorithms preserving some qualitative properties of the computed solutions methodologies which are helpful to assess the onset of potential instabilities or loss of robustness and tools to determine the asymptotic properties of the solution or its discretization The topics considered include the computation of robustness measures for linear problems the use of low rank ODEs to approximate such measures via gradient systems the regularity stability passivity and controllability analysis of structured linear descriptor systems and the use of acceleration techniques to deal with some of the presented computational problems Although the emphasis is on the numerical study of differential equations and dynamical systems the book will also be of interest to researchers in matrix theory spectral optimization and spectral graph theory as well as in dynamical systems and systems theory Handbook of
