America Goes Green Kim Kennedy White,2012-11-12 This three volume encyclopedia explores the evolution of green ideology and eco friendly practices in contemporary American culture ranging from the creation of regional and national guidelines for green living to the publication of an increasing number of environmental blogs written from the layperson's perspective. Evidence of humanity's detrimental impact on the environment is mounting. As Americans we are confronted daily with news stories, blogs, and social media commentary about the necessity of practicing green behaviors to offset environmental damage. This essential reference is a fascinating review of the issues surrounding green living, including the impact of this lifestyle on Americans' time and money, the information needed to adhere to green principles in the 21st century, and case studies and examples of successful implementation. America Goes Green: An Encyclopedia of Eco-Friendly Culture in the United States examines this gripping topic through 3 volumes organized by A-Z entries across 11 themes, state-by-state essays grouped by region, and references including primary source documents, bibliography, glossary, and green resources. This timely encyclopedia explores the development of an eco-friendly culture in America, and entries present the debates, viewpoints, and challenges of green living.

A First Level Trigger Approach for the CBM Experiment Christian Alexander Steinle, 2012. In view of the very heavy CBM experiment constraints on the first level trigger, no conventional trigger is obviously applicable. Hence, a fast trigger algorithm with the goal of realization in reconfigurable hardware had to be developed to fulfill all requirements of the experiment. In this connection, the general Hough transform, which is already utilized in several other experiments, is used as a basis. This approach constitutes further a global method for tracking, which transforms all particle interaction points with the detector stations by means of a defined formula into a parameter space corresponding to the momentum of the particle tracks. This formula is, of course, developed especially for the given environment of CBM and defines thus the core of the applied three-dimensional Hough transform. As the main focus of attention is furthermore on the realization of the needed data throughout the necessary complex formula calculations give reason to outsource predefined formula results in look up tables This circumstance offers then collaterally the possibility to utilize any other sufficiently precise method like Runge Kutta of fourth order for example to compute these look up tables because this computation can be evidently done offline without any effect on the Hough transform s processing speed For algorithm simulation purposes the CBMROOT framework provides the module htrack which is written in the programming language C This module includes many analyses for the determination of algorithm parameters which can be even executed automatically to some extent In addition to this there are of course also analyses for the measurement of the algorithm s quality as well as for the individual rating of each partial step of the algorithm Consequently the milestone of a customizable level one tracking algorithm which can be used without any specific knowledge is now obtained Besides this the investigated concepts are explicitly considered in the implement
