Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular disease. They were randomly assigned to either a control group or a training group. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle, while the training group participated in a 12-week program of aerobic exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during a 30-minute walk. The results showed that the training group had a significantly lower HR and EE at rest and during the walk compared to the control group. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
