Politics In Emotion The Song Of Telangana Interventions:

Politics in Emotion Himadeep Muppidi, 2014-09-25 The work focuses on a subaltern local sovereignty movement called Telangana in India Over the last ten years this movement has engaged in a massive political mobilization including strikes rallies work stoppages occupation of public spaces electoral contests 200 and more political suicides and media battles But interestingly enough notwithstanding a political mobilization that has brought day to day life to a halt on a number of occasions it has remained largely invisible in international media and global politics Fascinated by the social movement's international invisibility as well as the causes and conditions of its eruption around a city region that has become a showcase of new capitalist development Muppidi seeks to unpack this issue showing that this invisibility is not just intrinsically puzzling but also represents the operation of power on a global scale Investigating the conditions of invisibility in this instance can therefore tell us something important about the way global power works to produce visibility and invisibility in the 21st century world This book provides a unique resource for students of Postcolonialism International relations and South East Asian studies

Emotions, Mobilisations and South Asian Politics Amélie Blom, Stéphanie Tawa Lama-Rewal, 2019-07-09 This book highlights the role of emotions in the contentious politics of modern South Asia It brings new methodological theoretical and empirical insights to the mutual constitution of emotions and mobilisations in India Pakistan and Bangladesh As such it addresses three distinct but related questions what do emotions do to mobilisations What do mobilisations do to emotions Further what does studying emotions in mobilisations reveal about the political culture of protest in South Asia The chapters in this volume emphasise that emotions are significant in politics because they have the power to mobilise They explore a variety of emotions including anger resentment humiliation hurt despair and nostalgia and also enchantment humour pleasure hope and enthusiasm The interdisciplinary research presented here shows that integrating emotions improves our understanding of South Asian politics while conversely focusing on South Asia helps retool current thinking on the emotional dynamics of political mobilisations The book offers contextual analyses of how emotions are publicly represented expressed and felt thus shedding light on the complex nature of protests power relations identity politics and the political culture of South Asia This cutting edge research volume intersects South Asian studies emotion studies and social movement studies and will greatly interest scholars and students of political science anthropology sociology history and cultural studies and the informed general reader interested in South Asian politics

War, Police and Assemblages of Intervention Jan Bachmann, Colleen Bell, Caroline Holmqvist, 2014-11-13 This book reflects on the way in which war and police policing intersect in contemporary Western led interventions in the global South The volume combines empirically oriented work with ground breaking theoretical insights and aims to collect for the first time thoughts on how war and policing converge amalgamate diffuse and dissolve in the context both of actual international intervention and in understandings thereof The book uses the caption WAR POLICE to highlight the distinctiveness of this volume in presenting a variety of approaches that share a concern for the assemblage of war police as a whole The volume thus serves to bring together critical perspectives on liberal interventionism where the logics of war and police policing blur and bleed into a complex assemblage of WAR POLICE Contributions to this volume offer an understanding of police as a technique of ordering and collectively take issue with accounts of the character of contemporary war that argue that war is simply reduced to policing In contrast the contributions show how both historically and conceptually the two are always already connected Contributions to this volume come from a variety of disciplines including international relations war studies geography anthropology and law but share a critical poststructuralist approach to the study of international intervention war and policing This volume will be useful to students and scholars who have an interest in social theories on intervention war security and the making of international order

Colonial Citizenship and Everyday Transnationalism Alexandria Innes, 2019-08-16 This book uncovers the contradictions and convergences of racism decolonisation migration and living international relations that were shaped by the shift from colonialism to postcolonialism and from nationalism to transnationalism between the 1950s and the present It takes up the story of Nicholaos Charalambou Kanaris a colonial migrant to the UK from Cyprus as a reflection on how the everyday lives of minor figures offer an unexplored window into international relations The research uncovers and offers insight into the complexities and messiness of everyday life and of trans national identities as they are lived and have been lived at the heart of imperial colonial and postcolonial systems and processes The innovative methodological approach adopts memoirs gathered through a series of life narrative interviews and is guided by theories of minor transnationalism that look to foreground horizontal relations between minor figures Various themes of international relations are examined through the lens of Nicholaos story and his family life including colonialism geopolitics citizenship security migration and transnationalism Examining how these themes play out in everyday life permits his practice and lived experience to theorise the international politics of colonialism migration and citizenship This book argues that Politics and International Relations can benefit from a transnational approach and offers a method of theory in practice for exploring the everyday experience of transnationalism through the methodology of life narrative and memoir

The Value of Resilience Chris Zebrowski, 2015-08-20 The Value of Resilience represents one of the first systematic studies of resilience in the field of security studies At the turn of the twenty first century resilience has become a buzz word within fields as diverse as network engineering ecosystems management child psychology and military training programmes Resilience has emerged as a solution to the common problematic of radical contingency experienced across these fields At its most general level resilience is understood as the capacity to absorb withstand and bounce back quickly and efficiently from a perturbation It is considered to be both a natural property and a quality which can be improved within a broad array of complex systems Rather than treating resilience as either a unified concept or technique of governance this book analyses resilience as an emergent security value Utilizing a biopolitical analytic it demonstrates that the value of resilience has appreciated alongside transformations in the order of power knowledge enacted by political economies of security Zebrowski argues that resilience was not lying in wait for the march of science to provide the conditions for its recognition Nor was it concealed by the distortions of ideology which lifted with the culmination of the Cold War There is nothing natural about resilience By drawing attention to the complex historical processes and significant governmental efforts required to make resilience possible this book aims to open up a space through which the value of resilience may be more critically interrogated It will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations security studies and conflict resolution

On the Greek Origins of Biopolitics Mika Ojakangas, 2016-04-28 This book explores the origins of western biopolitics in ancient Greek political thought Ojakangas s argues that the conception of politics as the regulation of the quantity and quality of population in the name of the security and happiness of the state and its inhabitants is as old as the western political thought itself the politico philosophical categories of classical thought particularly those of Plato and Aristotle were already biopolitical categories In their books on politics Plato and Aristotle do not only deal with all the central topics of biopolitics from the political point of view but for them these topics are the very keystone of politics and the art of government Yet although the Western understanding of politics was already biopolitical in classical Greece the book does not argue that the history of biopolitics would constitute a continuum from antiquity to the twentieth century Instead Ojakangas argues that the birth of Christianity entailed a crisis of the classical biopolitical rationality as the majority of classical biopolitical themes concerning the government of men and populations faded away or were outright rejected It was not until the renaissance of the classical culture and literature including the translation of Plato s and Aristotles political works into Latin that biopolitics became topical again in the West The book will be of great interest to scholars and students in the field of social and political studies social and political theory moral and political philosophy IR theory intellectual history classical studies

The Biopolitics of Lifestyle Christopher Mayes, 2015-12-22 A growing sense of urgency over obesity at the national and international level has led to a proliferation of medical and non medical interventions into the daily lives of individuals and populations This work focuses on the biopolitical use of lifestyle to govern individual choice and secure population health from the threat of obesity The characterization of obesity as a threat to society caused by the cumulative effect of individual lifestyles has led to the politicization of daily choices habits and practices as potential threats This book critically examines these unquestioned assumptions about obesity and lifestyle and their relation to wider debates surrounding neoliberal governmentality biopolitical regulation of populations discipline of bodies and the possibility of community resistance The rationale for this book follows Michel Foucault s approach of problematization addressing the way lifestyle is problematized as a biopolitical domain in neoliberal societies Mayes argues that in response to the threat of obesity lifestyle has emerged as a network of disparate knowledges relations and practices through which individuals are governed toward the security of the population s health Although a central focus is government health campaigns this volume demonstrates that the network of lifestyle emanates from a variety of overlapping domains and disciplines including public health clinical medicine media entertainment school programs advertising sociology and ethics This book offers a timely critique of the continued interventions into the lives of individuals and communities by government agencies private industries medical and non medical experts in the name of health and population security and will be of interests to students and scholars of critical international relations theory health and bioethics and governmentality studies Researching War Annick T. R. Wibben, 2016-05-12 Researching War provides a unique overview of varied feminist contributions to the study of war through case studies from around the world Written by well respected scholars each chapter explicitly showcases the role of feminist methodological ethical and political commitments in the research process Designed to be useful for teaching also the book provides insight into feminist research practices for students and scholars wanting to further their understanding what it means to study war and other issues from a feminist perspective To this end every author follows a four part structure in the presentation of their case study outlining a research puzzle explaining the chosen approach describing the findings and finally offering a reflection on the feminist commitments that guided the research This book Provides a multi disciplinary perspective on war by drawing on disciplines such as anthropology history literature peace research postcolonial theory queer studies security studies and women s studies Showcases a multiplicity of experiences with war and violence emphasizing everyday experiences of war and violence with accounts from around the world Challenges stereotypical accounts of women violence and war by pointing to contradictions and unexpected continuities as well as unexpected findings made possible by adopting a feminist perspective Teases out linkages between various forms of political violence against women but increasingly also by women Discusses theoretical and methodological innovation in feminist research on war This book will be essential reading for advanced students and scholars of Security Studies Gender and Conflict Women and War Feminist International Relations and Research Methods Late Modern Palestine Laura Junka-Aikio, 2015-10-14 Late Modern Palestine looks at the ways in which the relationship between the subject and representation and the political problematic of postcolonial late modernity is articulated in the context of the Palestinians struggle for liberation Junko Aikio provides a rich theoretically and empirically and in part also visually grounded study of the complex ways in which ordinary Palestinians face negotiate and resist multiple regimes of power and desire in the context of everyday life in the West Bank and Gaza The volume examines the early years of the second Palestinian uprising an intifada whose political status remains highly disputed The book examines the ways in which Palestinian politics during the second intifada has been entangled with the broader social and political changes that are associated with postcolonial late modernity It is argued that the dislocation between modern colonial and late modern postcolonial regimes of power and subjectivity greatly complicates the map of power and resistance in contemporary Palestine and also renders articulation of national unity and hegemonic political strategy increasingly unlikely This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of

Middle East Studies Postcolonial Studies International Relations Political Sociology Critical Security Studies and Political Theory

Negotiating Corruption Laura Routley, 2015-12-14 Negotiating Corruption demands that we think again about corruption in Africa. It problematises the framing of African corruption as a phenomenon that emerges from a clash between two sets of norms. Moreover, it highlights the colonial legacies of this frame which situates African corruption within continually recurring debates about the political inclusion or banishment of others. NGOs are characterised as intermediaries between the local and the international and between the state and the population. In both of these roles they are understood to reform governance by bringing about changes in culture and instituting bureaucratic norms. They have therefore been seen as part of the apparatus of a global liberal governmentality. This book complicates this portrayal and highlights the ambiguous role of liberal governmentality through an exploration of the grey practices of the NGOs studied. These practices are grey as they do not fit the pattern of virtuous NGOs holding the state to account described in development policy yet at the same time they ensure that the state produces the outcomes that a fully functioning state ought to. This enacting of oppositional and antagonistic elements is further unpacked in conversation with Homi Bhabha's concepts of negotiation and hybridity. Negotiating Corruption draws attention to both the limitations of current explanations of corruption in Africa and the problematic way in which they are framed. The book's detailed engagement with understandings of corruption within policy and academic debates will make it a useful resource for undergraduate teaching. It will also be of keen interest to researchers, academics and postgraduate students who engage with the issues of corruption, NGOs, civil society, African politics, governmentality and hybridity.

On Schmitt and Space Claudio Minca, Rory Rowan, 2015-07-24 This book represents the first comprehensive study of the influential German legal and political thinker Carl Schmitt's spatial thought, offering the first systematic examination from a Geographic perspective of one of the most important political thinkers of the twentieth century. It charts the development of Schmitt's spatial thinking from his early work on secularization and the emergence of the modern European state to his post-war analysis of the spatial basis of global order and international law whilst situating his thought in relation to his changing biographical and intellectual context, controversial involvement in Weimar politics and disastrous support for the Nazi regime. It argues that spatial concepts play a crucial structural role throughout Schmitt's work from his well-known analyses of sovereign power and states of exception to his often overlooked spatial history of modernity. Locating a fundamental relationship between space and the political lies at the core of his thought. The book explores the critical insight that Schmitt's spatial thought bears on some of the key political questions of the twentieth century whilst tracking his profound and enduring influence on key debates on sovereignty, international relations, war and the nature of world order at the start of the twenty-first century.

Insuring Life Luis Lobo-Guerrero, 2016-04-20 This book is a contribution to the scholarly engagement with the wider problem of governing through risk and the politics of uncertainty. It takes life insurance as an empirical site from which to ask what is the kind of governance created through insurance an instance of and how does it contribute to the transcendence of liberalism By making a distinction between capable life as object of insurance and potential life as that which escapes its control the book conducts a historical epistemological analysis of the problems of valuation truth production securitisation classification and gendering that constitute life insurance products and practices Insuring Life offers a critical engagement with the epistemology of life insurance to demonstrate the unnecessary and precarious character of the conditions that make this instrument of liberal governance possible It concludes that the transcendence of liberalism relies on the technological agency of these instruments and that its challenge begins by redefining the terms under which the potential of life if invaluable is to be thought as event The book follows Insuring War as the third of a trilogy that analyses how concepts and practices of power risk and security materialise in the form of insurance as a central instrument of governance in the liberal world It will be of great use to scholars researchers and postgraduate students of political economy critical security studies and political theory the biopolitics of security and post structural politics Insuring War <https://www.routledge.com/products/search?keywords=insuring+war> Insuring Security <https://www.routledge.com/Insuring+Security+Biopolitics+security+and+risk+Lobo+Guerrero+book/9780415522854> Empire Within Alexander D Barder, 2015-03-24 This book explores the reverberating impacts between historical and contemporary imperial laboratories and their metropolises through three case studies concerning violence surveillance and political economy The invasions of Afghanistan in 2001 and Iraq in 2003 forced the United States to experiment and innovate in considerable ways Faced with growing insurgencies that called into question its entire mission the occupation authorities engaged in a series of tactical and technological innovations that changed the way it combated insurgents and managed local populations The book presents new material to develop the argument that imperial and colonial contexts function as a laboratory in which techniques of violence population control and economic principles are developed which are subsequently introduced into the domestic society of the imperial state The text challenges the widely taken for granted notion that the diffusion of norms and techniques is a one way street from the imperial metropole to the dependent or weak periphery This work will be of great interest to scholars of international relations critical security studies and international relations theory Britain Through Muslim Eyes Claire Chambers, 2015-07-30 What did Britain look like to the Muslims who visited and lived in the country in increasing numbers from the late eighteenth century onwards This book is a literary history of representations of Muslims in Britain from the late eighteenth century to the eve of Salman Rushdie's publication of The Satanic Verses 1988 Critical Imaginations in International Relations Aoileann Ní Mhurchú, Reiko Shindo, 2016-01-29 This exciting new text brings together in one volume an overview of the many reflections on how we might address the problems and limitations of a state centred approach in the discipline of International Relations IR The book is structured into chapters on key concepts with each providing an introduction to the concept for those new to the field of critical politics including undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as drawing connections between concepts and thinkers that will be provocative and illuminating for more established researchers in the field They give an overview of core ideas associated with the concept the critical potential of the concept and key thinkers linked to the concept seeking to address the following questions How has the concept traditionally been understood How has the concept come to be understood in critical thinking How is the concept used in interrogating the limits of state centrism What different possibilities for engaging with international relations have been envisioned through the concept Why are such possibilities for alternative thinking about international relations important What are some key articles and volumes related to the concept which readers can go for further research Drawing together some of the key thinkers in the field of critical International Relations and including both established and emerging academics located in Asia Europe Latin America and North America this book is a key resource for students and scholars alike

The Grammar of Politics and Performance Shirin M Rai, Janelle Reinelt, 2014-12-05 This volume brings together important work at the intersection of politics and performance studies While the languages of theatre and performance have long been deployed by other disciplines these are seldom deployed seriously and pursued systematically to discover the actual nature of the relationship between performance as a set of behavioural practices and the forms and the transactions of these other disciplines This book investigates the structural similarities and features of politics and performance which are referred to here as grammar a concept which also emphasizes the common communicational base or language of these fields In each of the chapters included in this collection key processes of both politics and performance are identified and analyzed demonstrating the critical and indivisible links between the fields The book also underlines that neither politics nor performance can take place without actors who perform and spectators who receive evaluate and react to these actions At the heart of the project is the ambition to bring about a paradigm change such that politics cannot be analyzed seriously without a sophisticated understanding of its performance All the chapters here display a concrete set of events practices and contexts within which politics and performance are inseparable elements This work will be of great interest to students and scholars in both International Relations and Performance Studies

Studying the Agency of Being Governed Stina Hansson, Sofie Hellberg, Maria Stern, 2014-09-15 This edited volume seeks to provide guidance on how we can approach questions of governing and agency particularly those who endeavour to embark on grounded empirical research by rendering explicit some key challenges tensions dilemmas and confluences that such endeavours elicit Indeed the contributions in this volume reflect the growing tendency in governmentality studies to shift focus to empirically grounded studies The volume thus explicitly aims to move from theory to practice and to step back from the more top down governmentality studies approach to one that examines how one can do study how relations of power affect lives experience and agency This book offers insight into the intricate relations between the workings of governing and the possibility for people's agency on the one hand and about the possible effects of our attempts to engage in such studies on the other In numerous ways and from different starting points the contributions to this volume provide thoughtful insights into and creative suggestions for how to work with the methodological challenges of studying the agency of being governed This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations global governance and research methods Emotions, Politics and War Linda Åhäll, Thomas Gregory, 2015-07-03 A growing number of scholars have sought to re centre emotions in our study of international politics however an overarching book on how emotions matter to the study of politics and war is yet to be published This volume is aimed at filling that gap proceeding from the assumption that a nuanced understanding of emotions can only enhance our engagement with contemporary conflict and war Providing a range of perspectives from a diversity of methodological approaches on the conditions maintenance and interpretation of emotions the contributors interrogate the multiple ways in which emotions function and matter to the study of global politics Accordingly the innovative contribution of this volume is its specific engagement with the role of emotions and constitution of emotional subjects in a range of different contexts of politics and war including the gendered nature of war and security war traumas post conflict reconstruction and counterinsurgency operations Looking at how we analyse emotions in war why it matters and what emotions do in global politics this volume will be of interest to students and scholars of critical security studies and international relations alike

Cultural Politics of Targeted Killing Kyle Grayson, 2016-07-15 The deployment of remotely piloted air platforms RPAs or drones has become a defining feature of contemporary counter insurgency operations Scholarly analysis and public debate has primarily focused on two issues the legality of targeted killing and whether the practice is effective at disrupting insurgency networks and the intensive media and activist scrutiny of the policy processes through which targeted killing decisions have been made While contributing to these ongoing discussions this book aims to determine how targeted killing has become possible in contemporary counter insurgency operations undertaken by liberal regimes Each chapter is oriented around a problematisation that has shaped the cultural politics of the targeted killing assemblage Grayson argues that in order to understand how specific forms of violence become prevalent it is important to determine how problematisations that enable them are shaped by a politico cultural system in which culture operates in conjunction with technological economic governmental and geostrategic elements The book also demonstrates that the actors involved what they may be attempting to achieve through the deployment of this form of violence how they attempt to achieve it and where they attempt to achieve it are also shaped by culture The book demonstrates how the current social relations prevalent in liberal societies contain the potential for targeted killing as a normal rather than extraordinary practice It will be of great use for academic specialists and graduate students in international studies geography sociology cultural studies and legal studies Race and Racism in International Relations Alexander Anievas, Nivi Manchanda, Robbie Shilliam, 2014-10-30 International Relations as a discipline does not grant race and racism explanatory agency in its conventional analyses despite such issues being integral to the birth of the discipline Race and Racism in International Relations seeks to remedy this oversight by acting as a catalyst for remembering exposing and critically re articulating the central importance of race and racism in International Relations Focusing especially on the theoretical and political legacy of W E B Du Bois s concept of the colour line the cutting edge contributions in this text provide an accessible entry point for both International Relations students and scholars into the literature and debates on race and racism by borrowing insights from disciplines such as history anthropology and sociology where race and race theory figures more prominently yet they also suggest that the field of IR is itself an intellectually and strategic field through which to further confront the global colour line Drawing together a wide range of contributors this much needed text will be essential reading for students and scholars in a range of areas including Postcolonial studies race racism in world politics and international relations theory
