

Photography Research Paper

Marine Photographer:

Hi there, thanks for the kind words happy to help. How long have you been into photography? Since 1990, I've always been interested in photography since the age of 10 and when I took up diving there was no question that I would be taking a camera in the water to bring back the amazing scenes and show people my discoveries. How did you get your start in photography? As a youngster I always had the idea I would like to draw and was complete crap! I picked up a camera one day and realized I could express my artistic self through a camera.

I've never looked back. I remember the first time someone referred to me as an artist as being very significant. What are your key interests within the business? Although I am not a professional my work has been published, and I have worked intermittently on professional projects on land and underwater. I associate with a quite a few professionals. I am always interested to see what sells in the market. You'd be surprised by what sells, opposed to what people like to hang on their walls. Pricing yourself in the market is important. Many pros complain people give their images away and devalue the market.

I am always interested in what companies are willing to pay for. I often consult with professionals before I sell images to magazines. Where do you do most of your work? The majority of my work is done in UK waters. I live and work in the UK so it makes sense to take advantage of all the area has to offer. I do work overseas periodically, but I prefer cooler climates. One goal I have is to dive under sea ice in the Arctic, or Antarctic. What do you enjoy most about this type of photography? Being underwater is like no other environment, there's no distraction with mobile phones, and people talking.

I like the challenge of being able to dive in harsh environments and show people the beauty, especially in the UK, as many feel it's often dark and gloomy and there's no colour. What is the most important thing to remember to get a good image? The single most important element in getting a good underwater picture is to get close to your subject, generally a maximum of three feet for most subjects, sometimes inches away. It depends on the size of the subject you are shooting. Obviously a 30 foot basking shark is different than a one inch shrimp.

The other thing is all about understanding light, whether you are using artificial light, or natural light, or balancing the two. The next thing to consider is the background and whether the subject is accessible or not. We try very hard as underwater photographers to not damage the environment for the sake of a picture. What is your favorite photograph of your own and why? I don't have one particular favourite. This changes all the time as the obsession to keep creating new material. I like the close up pictures of Lemon sharks I have done in black and white. There are so many others, hard to say really.

U.S. Forest Service Research Paper PSW., 1966 Paper Promises Mazie M. Harris, 2018-03-20 Scholarship on photography's earliest years has tended to focus on daguerreotypes on metal or on the European development of paper photographs made from glass or paper negatives But Americans also experimented with negative positive processes to produce photographic images on a variety of paper formats in the early decades of the medium Paper Promises Early American Photography presents this rarely studied topic within photographic history The well researched and richly detailed texts in this book delve into the complexities of early paper photography in the United States from the 1840s to 1860s bringing to light a little known era of American photographic appropriation and adaptation Exploring the economic political intellectual and social factors that impacted its unique evolution both the essays and the carefully selected images illustrate the importance of photographic reproduction in shaping and circulating perceptions of America and its people during a critical period of political tension and territorial expansion Due to the fragility of paper photography from this period the works in this catalogue are rarely displayed making the volume an essential tool for any scholar in the field and a very rare peek into the mid nineteenth century Photo-Era Magazine, the American Journal of Photography, 1910 USDA Forest Service Research Paper PSW., 1969 Bulletin of Photography, 1921 Bulletin of Photography John Bartlett, Frank V. defining the early twentieth century Surrealist Movement more closely which has been described in the Manifeste du surr alisme in 1924 by ANDR BRETON who seems to be widely acknowledged as the father of Surrealism After a brief theoretical section outlining a short historical chronology of Surrealism and commenting on BRETON s influence on the Surrealist Movement in 20th Century France chapter 3 will present an analysis of Nadja 1928 one of BRETON s most important surrealist novels forming the climax of the literary movement of Surrealism in France REENTS 2009 31 The analysis will be carried out from a predominantly photographic angle to examine how photography relates to the concept of the surreal and how it helps define Surrealism in BRETON s time
