All students have great but different strengths and talents. We give opportunities for each student to shine. We encourage our students with every interest in the school effort to participate in sports, clubs, or other programs outside the classroom. Everyone is a star! (Source: www.rockwell.k12.ca.us)

Abstract. In the offshore industry, environmental management systems (EMS) have been implemented in order to address environmental issues. This paper presents the findings of a research project that investigated the implementation of EMS in the offshore industry. The research was conducted using a combination of interviews and questionnaires. The findings of the research indicate that the implementation of EMS in the offshore industry is a complex process that involves a number of factors, including the size of the company, the complexity of the operations, and the availability of resources. The research also identified a number of challenges that are associated with the implementation of EMS in the offshore industry, including the lack of information, the lack of resources, and the lack of commitment. The research concludes that the implementation of EMS in the offshore industry is a necessary step towards achieving environmental sustainability.
