Novice LGBTQ+ Scholars' Practices in Writing for Scholarly Publication Sharon McCulloch, 2024-07-31 This collection brings together perspectives from early career LGBTQ scholars as they navigate the scholarly publishing landscape, highlighting their experiences and challenges in providing greater representation within the academic community and existing scholarship. The volume reflects on the ways in which scholarly output is intricately linked with scholarly identity and the challenges LGBTQ scholars face when their scholarly and gender and sexual identities can often seem to be in conflict. The book showcases perspectives from doctoral students and early career scholars from around the world working across different disciplines, supported by case studies, autoethnographic narratives and discourse analysis to explore key issues facing those who identify as LGBTQ or who wish to research and publish on topics relating to gender and sexual identity. Researching Critical Reflection Jan Fook, Val Collington, Fiona Ross, Gillian Ruch, Linden West, 2015-10-05 Critical reflection helps professionals to learn directly from their practice experience so that they can improve their own work in an ongoing and flexible way something essential in today's complex and changing organisations. It allows change to be managed in a way which enables individuals to preserve a sense of what is fundamentally important to them as professionals. It is particularly important as it can also help make sense of some fundamental issues and so also has implications for how we live our lives. However, more systematic research on critical reflection is needed to help us understand what works best for professionals in different settings. This timely work explores how critical reflection is researched, evaluated and used as a research method itself with the aim of improving how it is taught and practised in a rigorous and transferable way. Developing a more comprehensive and multi-disciplinary view of the current state of critical reflection and the research directions which need to be taken, the book is divided into four parts. It provides an overview of different perspectives on critical reflection and stimulates dialogue between them. Establishes some common platforms from which to develop further research directions. Identifies the major issues in evaluating critical reflection teaching and main methods for doing so. Contributes to social science methodological innovations by exploring how methods based on critical reflection can be used for researching professional practice. Contains contributions from academics who are internationally known and highly experienced in different aspects of critical reflection. Researching Critical Reflection is an important reference for all students, practitioners and researchers including in the areas of education, management, health and social work who engage with critical reflection to develop their practice.
