Giuliano Amato, Laraine L. Laudati, 2001-01-01 This timely book addresses the important issue of the negative effects of anticompetitive regulation on industry and the massive economic harm it causes. The distinguished contributors, including economic and legal scholars, advocate the need for a review of all anticompetitive laws and address several industry and country case studies with the ultimate aim of providing recommendations to eliminate the impact of anticompetitive regulation. The first part of the book considers regulations affecting private business and professions; part two covers public utility and public services regulation; whilst part three discusses the role of institutions and competition authorities in relation to anticompetitive practices. The authors draft guidelines based on economic evidence and legal arguments which they believe would provide a starting point for the European Union to address the problem. They go on to propose possible implementation strategies for these guidelines from both an institutional and legal perspective. The book also includes a historical perspective on the evolution of anticompetitive regulation, complemented by an overview of the actions currently being implemented to address and reverse the problem in other jurisdictions. European Competition Law Annual 1998

Claus-Dieter Ehlermann, 2000-09-14 Presenting academic papers and edited transcripts of panel discussions first presented at the Third Workshop on European Competition Law held in Florence in 1998, this volume provides insight into the debate of whether governments or the European Union should intervene to prevent powerful firms from abusing their control of critical gateways between consumers and communication information services. The volume's three sections, consisting of a panel discussion accompanied by from nine to 12 academic papers, are organized into three themes: regulating access to bottlenecks, agreements, integration and structural remedies, and institutions and competence. Panel participants include professors of economics, law, and telecommunications; lawyers specializing in European trade and telecommunications law; policy, trade, and technology advisors and consultants; and others. Tade Oyewunmi, 2018-05-08 Natural gas, a vital primary source of energy for the twenty-first century economy, is poised to play a major role in the medium to long-term outlook of energy systems worldwide. Its supply to power markets for electricity generation and other energy purposes through the stages of exploration, production, gathering, processing, transmission, and distribution have been a key driver in gas commercialisation over the past two to three decades. This book discusses insights from law and economics pertaining to gas and energy supply, contracts, regulation, and institutions. It provides an in-depth law-in-context analysis of the approaches to developing competitive and secure gas-to-power markets in an increasingly international, interrelated, and interconnected value chain. Recognising a general move towards structural reforms and economic regulation of gas and energy markets globally, the author incisively addresses the following questions Is there a single ideal model or approach for ensuring effectiveness in the restructuring and regulation of gas supply to power markets If not then what constitutes the matrix of models and approaches What are the underlying principles assumptions and institutional structures that will enhance the modern approaches to developing competitive secure and sustainable gas supply to power markets What are the factors that determine or affect the effectiveness and efficiency of such approaches and regulatory frameworks The book critically explores the instrumental role of regulation and organisational institutions in the restructuring and development of gas supply markets It examines the evolution of economic approaches to regulation competitiveness and security of gas supply in the United States and the United Kingdom It considers the EU as a supranational union of developed economies and Nigeria as a developing economy in the process of applying these paradigms of economic regulation and restructuring of gas to power markets In a law and policy environment where training and educational centres lawyers and public and corporate energy advisors are becoming more concerned about competitiveness and efficiency in gas resource allocation and pricing and about high quality governance frameworks for industries that depend on reliable gas supplies this vital book will be warmly welcomed by lawyers policymakers energy consultants analysts regulators corporate investors academics and institutions concerned with and engaged in the business of exploration production and supply of gas for energy purposes DOJ oversight United States.
